

Bob LaFollette Hits Espionage As Big Obstacle To Bargaining

Reports by Spies Hammer Unions, Senator Declares GROWTH DESCRIBED
Witness Says There Was Little Spying Before 1933

Washington (P-Wis.)—Chairman LaFollette (P-Wis.) of the senate subcommittee on labor relations asserted today that "labor unions have proved to be one of the most effective weapons in destroying genuine collective bargaining activity on the part of workers."

"The evidence is overwhelming," he declared, "that the injection of these labor spies into unions and the fact that they get to be officers and report the names of members to the management of corporations have hampered unions."

LaFollette made his assertion after Alfred Marshall, Chevrolet Motor company personnel chief, had testified that his firm enlarged its factory espionage rapidly after 1933 when "labor unions began to present quite a problem."

Detective agencies originally were engaged to investigate effective espionage and the indications of foremen," Marshall said. "There was very little spying on union activities before 1933."

United Front
Senator Thomas (D-Utah) told the committee "all the biggest employers in the country" were prepared to "present a united front" against labor unions, using espionage as a weapon.

He referred to a "special conference committee," formed by personnel officers of 12 great corporations for discussion of labor and other problems.

"That presents a grand opportunity for unity," Thomas declared. Marshall disagreed, arguing that the significance of spying was "over-magnified and over-talked about."

"You have to have some way to find out what the employees are talking and thinking about," he said.

Ordered Gas
Marshall testified yesterday he had ordered $4,000 or $5,000 worth of gas and equipment from Federal Laboratories, Inc., during the last months of 1936.

He said these munitions were delivered to William Smith, plant protection officer in Detroit, and some later were shipped to a factory at Saginaw, Mich.

Another gas shipment, valued at upwards of $1,000, was delivered in 1933 to the Flint, Mich., chief of police, Marshall said.

Assuring the committee the gas was not deadly, Marshall said it was intended only for plant protection.

"I would want to kill a man if he were going to blow up my plant," remarked Senator Thomas.

"Well, you might," Marshall replied, "but I wouldn't."

Tells of Craf
Merle C. Hale, former labor relations director for General Motors, described a special conference committee, formed by personnel chiefs of 12 of the nation's largest corporations for discussion of common problems.

These companies were pioneers in employee representation plans, he said, and topics discussed at monthly meetings ranged from labor unions to social security and the writings of Supreme Court Justice Brandeis.

Most of the members were strong in the belief, he said, that the labor objectives of the national recovery act could be realized through "employee representations of works councils."

"They are also, known as company unions, aren't they?" LaFollette inquired.

"Yes," Hale replied, "but erroneously so, I think."

MAY DAY QUEEN
Milwaukee (P-Wis.)—Milwaukee-Downtown college students today elected Virginia Senn of Oshkosh, queen of their May day fest. Miss Senn, a senior, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Senn.

Dr. Meiklejohn to Guide New School For Adult Students
San Francisco (P-Wis.)—Dr. Alexander Meiklejohn came to town today to guide a new movement in the field of learning.

Dr. Meiklejohn, professor of philosophy at the University of Wisconsin and former president of Amherst college, is to devote six months of each year as teacher and advisor with the San Francisco School of Social Studies, "a school of adult education with a 50 year curriculum."

Maintained through tremendous endowments and contributions, the school is free to anyone from 20 to 70 years old. It was founded on the theory that intelligent adults may wish to undertake study which they will carry on throughout their lifetimes.

"Education should not stop when one leaves school in youth," said Dr. Meiklejohn. "It should be carried on through one's lifetime, not in such an arduous fashion as to interfere with activities more urgent, but as natural interest dictates."

GETS NEW POST

Madison (P-Wis.)—Attorney General O. S. Loomis announced today the appointment of John W. Reynolds (above) of Green Bay as junior assistant in charge of Indian claims. Reynolds, who has had a wide experience in Indian affairs, was attorney general from 1926 to 1932.

Moratorium Bill Given to Senate After House O. K.

Upper House Approves Measure on Public Service Commission

Madison (P-Wis.)—The legislature rushed action today on bills to provide a temporary solution of the public service commission tangle and continue for two more years the mortgage moratorium legislation which has been in effect since 1933.

The senate passed and sent to the assembly the Rush bill allowing the public service commission to function with only one member.

Because of two vacancies Chairman Fred S. Hunt has been acting alone, but the statute requires at least two for a quorum. Enactment of the bill will release expense payments for commission employees which have been held up.

The measure is effective, however, for only 60 days from the start of the legislative session. One new commissioner will have to be confirmed by March 15. The senate this week rejected Governor LaFollette's appointment of John H. Bickley.

Permits Extension
The mortgage moratorium bill, sponsored by Assemblyman N. J. Bichler (D), Belgium, and L. E. Carlson (P), Bayfield, permits the courts to extend the period for redeeming foreclosed property. The assembly passed it without roll call and sent it to the senate. The authors said that last year's drought created a situation which necessitates continuance of the law.

The last-minute rush by legislators to introduce individual bills before the deadline last midnight brought an avalanche of proposals. The assembly received 508 bills and the senate 180. Added to those already introduced the total for the two houses was 1,064. Most of these were offered by title only.

U.S. Navy Studies British Program

Sees Possibility of Being Forced to Build 3 New Battleships

Washington (P-Wis.)—The navy high command studied British building plans today to determine if three new battleships would be required to keep the United States navy second to none.

"It is a fair presumption," said the navy's ranking officer, Admiral William D. Leahy, "that if any other power expands its fleet, the United States may find it necessary to do likewise."

Britain's re-armament program announced yesterday included three new battleships. If they are intended only as replacements for outworn vessels, officers said, the United States might hold its out without additional new construction.

"It must be noted," said Leahy, "that the British thus far have actually done no more than we have done or plan to do in battleship construction."

The keels of two new battleships were laid in England a few weeks ago. The American navy plans to begin construction of two battleships on July 1.

The present building program of this country's fleet, now before congress, will not be held up for a study of the British proposal, Leahy said.

Crop and Feed Funds Available This Week

Washington (P-Wis.)—The farm credit administration announced today the $50,000,000 congress provided for 1937 emergency crop and feed loans would be available to farmers this week in all parts of the country.

John P. C. Murphy, who will direct the lending, said loans would be limited to farmers "who have no other source of credit." The size of the loan will be limited to the amount "actually needed to grow crops or maintain livestock until pasturage or forage crops are available." The maximum will be $400 at 4 per cent interest.

Justices and Solons Favor Courts' Plan

No Opposition to Governor's Program Apparently at Capital

BILL BEING DRAFTED

Message to Accompany Measure on Introduction in Legislature

Madison (P-Wis.)—Supreme court justices who would not be quoted and members of the legislative judiciary committees gave their qualified approval today to Governor LaFollette's surprise plan for a judiciary retirement bill resembling President Roosevelt's court plan.

The governor, late yesterday asked the senate and assembly judiciary committees to prepare a measure which will permit all members of the supreme court and all judges of the circuit courts to retire at half pay between the ages of 65, 70 and above.

The bill will be presented to the legislature with a formal message from the chief executive soon after it is drafted.

If enacted into law it will permit Chief Justice Marvin B. Rosenberry and Justice Chester A. Fowler, two of the seven members of the supreme court, to retire on pension.

The same privilege will be extended to 10 of the 29 circuit court judges in the state.

Not Compulsory
In no case, however, will retirement of the jurists be compulsory; but to avail themselves of half pay they will have to quit the bench between the ages of 65 and 70, and if they are over 70, within six months after the bill becomes law.

The governor may exercise his appointive power to fill vacancies, but his appointees will have to stand for office at the next succeeding election under Wisconsin law, which allows no judge to serve indefinitely through the appointive power.

For the present the governor would not discuss his reasons for proposing this bill, but his chief aids said it was intended to allow elder jurists to retire on compensation so that the burden of court work might be shifted to younger men.

Supreme court justices who would comment preferred not to speak for publication, but expressed the opinion there was merit in the plan.

Federation Backs Court Proposals

Secretary Wallace Thinks Most Farmers Will Approve Plan

Washington (P-Wis.)—The American Federation of Labor rallied today behind President Roosevelt's court program simultaneously with prediction by Secretary Wallace that farmers generally would approve it.

William Green, federation president, said the executive council preferred Mr. Roosevelt's proposals to the "slow, tedious process of a constitutional amendment" as a means of realizing social and economic advancement.

The organization will make an intensive campaign, Green said, to acquaint congressmen with the desires of "labor and labor's friends for favorable action upon the president's recommendation at the earliest possible date."

The federation's announcement followed endorsement by Labor's Non-Partisan League and by John L. Lewis, chairman of the committee for industrial organization. It is one of the few issues on which Green and Lewis, leaders of opposing labor factions have united in recent months.

Wallace, second cabinet member to express public support of supreme court enlargement, said he believed its enactment would give administration farm measures a better chance.

"It would seem to me if the president's proposal was adopted," he said, "there would be a higher percentage of men on the court who would interpret the constitution to assure the general welfare, and not as designed to block progress."

New Issues Arise at General Motors Confab

Detroit (P-Wis.)—New issues arising from the reopening of strike-closed General Motors automotive plants tended today to delay final settlement of differences involved in the recent strikes.

Counter-charges of violations of the agreement that ended the long dispute between the corporation and the United Automobile Workers a week ago were heard as negotiators met today in their fifth session.

Ed Hall, union vice president, saying 10 union members were discharged at Flint, Mich., last night, and that locals at Flint, Anderson, Ind., Cleveland, Ohio, St. Louis, Mo., and Janesville, Wis., had reported that their members were being transferred from the jobs they held before the strikes to new posts, declared these matters would be presented today to the corporation representatives. U. A. W. A. strikes occurred in all the cities mentioned.

General Motors announced the resumption of work in all of its 69 units.

Ask New Trial in Murder Case at Wisconsin Rapids

Affidavit Hits at Testimony Of Witness in Dingham's Conviction

Wisconsin Rapids (P-Wis.)—Attorneys revived a 3-year-old murder case today with the announcement they had asked for a new trial for Elmer Dingham, now serving a life term in Waupun state prison.

The motion, filed by Attorneys Byron B. Conway, Wisconsin Rapids, and Cornelius P. Hanley, Milwaukee, cites an affidavit intended to impeach the testimony of the state's star witness in Dingham's trial.

Dingham, who was arrested after finishing a term in a Nebraska prison, was convicted of being the trigger man in the robbery of a Marshfield, Wis., brewery in August, 1933, in which Fred Beel, a policeman and former world heavyweight wrestling champion, was killed.

Enumerating 12 reasons why Dingham should be retried, the motion includes the affidavit of Roman Wagner, Marshfield, now serving five to six years in Waupun.

The affidavit assails the testimony of Frank Heinzen, Marshfield, who identified Dingham from the stand as Beel's slayer. Heinzen testified he had seen the robbery and shooting from his window across the street from the brewery.

At his home in Marshfield, Heinzen declared the statements in Wagner's affidavit were "absolutely false" and that he did not know the man. He declined further comment before consulting the district attorney.

Hanley said the motion had been served on District Attorney Hugh W. Goggins who prosecuted the case, but that no date had been set as yet for arguing the plea before Judge Byron B. Park at Stevens Point.

Dingham was convicted in October, 1935. Wagner was sentenced in October, 1934, for breaking and entering in the nighttime. He made the information known to Dingham, he said, while both were in prison.

Joe Webster also was convicted in connection with the robbery and slaying. Two others, suspected of participating, never were linked definitely with the case, while a fourth man, "Speed" Gabriel, was killed during the robbery.

Schneider Urges Funds For Harbors Projects

Washington (P-Wis.)—Representative George Schneider, Appleton, Wis., urged the house rivers and harbors committee today to approve $67,500 expenditure for improving the Detroit and Jackson harbors at the mouth of Green Bay in Wisconsin.

The army engineers corps has recommended the improvement, embracing widening and deepening the channel entrances.

Representative Schneider said fishermen and farmers on Washington island need adequate means of transportation. He also said the influx of summer tourists necessitated good ferry service.

Board Votes to Restore Cuspidors to Courthouse

Cuspidors are going back into the courthouse.

Officials, employees and visitors who chew tobacco and want some kind of disposal facilities, pipe smokers who want some place to dump their ashes, cigar and cigarette users who like places to throw the stubs today were humored by an official action of the county board.

The "spittoons" were removed a few weeks ago by order of Supervisor Mike Jacobs, chairman of the buildings and grounds committee, but the board, almost to a man, ordered this morning that the open-face vessels be put back where they were.

When the restoration resolution was introduced today, Supervisor Jacobs, taking full responsibility for

Block Move to Return Wages Waived in '33

Resolution Is Ruled Out of Order by Mayor Goodland

HEAR PROPOSAL

Limit Parking on Part of Richmond and Packard Streets

What Council Did:

Heard Mayor Goodland rule out of order a resolution to return to city officials part of their salaries waived in 1933.

Set salaries of police and fire department mechanics at $132.50 per month.

Referred proposal to create office of full-time city health officer and part-time city physician to relief committee.

Voted to amend dog ordinance to make owners keep their dogs tied from April 1 to Sept. 1.

Placed 90-minute parking restrictions on sections of Richmond and Packard streets.

Resolved street and bridge committee to consider wage adjustments in street department.

Stating that if any city officials had wage claims against the city they should file them individually, Mayor Goodland at a meeting of the council last night ruled out of order a resolution to return wages waived by the officials during 1933.

The resolution provided for the return of the money in installments starting with May 1. Amounts mentioned in the resolution were mayor $300, city clerk $200, city treasurer $200, city engineer $1,000, city assessor $200 and city attorney $160. The mayor asked that his name be stricken from the list when it was read and then ruled the resolution out of order.

The sums mentioned in the resolution, signed by a group of aldermen, were the amounts voluntarily waived by the city officials in 1933. As wages of these officials cannot be changed until next year, the resolution was drawn up to keep the pay of these officials in line.

Wage Negotiations Given to Committee

New York (P-Wis.)—The United Mine Workers and Appalachian soft coal producers turned over their wage and hour negotiations today to a joint committee.

The full Appalachian joint conference then recessed, subject to the call of Chairman Duncan C. Kennedy of Charleston, W. Va. He probably will not bring together the full conference until the negotiating committee is ready to report an agreement or finds an agreement impossible.

The operators named the following as members of their committee: J. D. A. Morrow, L. E. Woods, L. T. Putnam, D. A. Reed, P. C. Thomas, Ezra Van Horn, M. L. Gravey and Charles P. O'Neill.

The miners appointed on their committee John L. Lewis, president of the union, Philip Murray, vice president, Thomas Kennedy, secretary-treasurer, and 12 district presidents.

Dogs in 6 Towns are Put Under Quarantine

Madison (P-Wis.)—Dogs in six Grant county townships were placed under a 90-day rabies quarantine today by the state department of agriculture and markets.

Clerks in the townships of Bloomington, Little Grant, Glenhaven, Beetown, Cassville and Waterloo, and in cities and villages within these borders, were urged to post warnings.

Dr. Walter Wisnicky, state director of livestock sanitation, said the outbreak of rabies may develop into serious proportions unless stringent enforcement of regulations is commanded by the authorities.

"Strict observance of the quarantine will aid in preventing the loss of valuable livestock," he said. "All classes of livestock, including horses, cattle, sheep and swine are susceptible to rabies, and a serious hazard to human health may also occur."

Board Votes to Restore Cuspidors to Courthouse

The removal of the cuspidors, defended his action vigorously, claiming that it had been his object as head of the buildings and grounds committee to keep the courthouse sanitary, and that it has been proven that the lobby was cleaner after removal of the cuspidors.

Bad Marksmanship
The cuspidors, he maintained, were used to spit at rather than in and in nine out of ten cases the marksmanship was faulty.

Jacobs said he would ask nobody to clean cuspidors, and that the supply in the courtroom, used by the board, were brought up by the janitor of his own volition. The supervisor said if he had been asked to supply the vessels for the

Roosevelt Asks Crop Insurance and System Of Reserves Storage

Canadian Doctor Describes Aerial and Naval Bombing Of 150,000 Spanish Refugees

Valencia (P-Wis.)—Insurgent airplanes and warships were reported today by Dr. Norman Bethune, of Montreal, to have bombed and shelled 150,000 fleeing men, women and children during the "terrible evacuation" of captured Malaga.

The refugees, Dr. Bethune, head of the Spanish-American Blood Transfusion Institute, said, "staggered and stumbled, with cut and bruised feet, along the white flint road while the fascists (insurgents) bombed them from the air and from the sea."

Dr. Bethune said he saw the flight from the southern seaport, captured by the insurgents Feb. 8, during a trip from Barcelona with a truckload of refrigerated blood for transfusions.

"Imagine," he said, "150,000 men, women and children setting out for safety in a town situated more than 100 miles away with only one road to take on a journey requiring five days and five nights at least."

Aerial Bombardment
Then on the evening of Feb. 12, Dr. Bethune said, "when the little seaport of Almeria was completely filled with refugees who thought they had reached a haven of safety, airplanes dropped 10 bombs in the very center of town where refugees were sleeping, huddled so closely together on the main street an air could pass only with great difficulty."

"After the planes passed, I picked up three dead children from the pavement where they had been standing in line waiting for a cup of preserved milk and a handful of dry bread, the only food some of them had had for days."

"The streets were a shambles of dead and dying, lighted only by the orange glare of burning buildings. In the semi-darkness the moans of wounded children and the shrieks of agonized mothers rose in a mass of cry higher and higher to a pitch of intolerable intensity."

Describes Throng
The Canadian doctor told how the refugees—"there were thousands of children"—stumbled along the road in an "incessant stream so dense we barely could force our cars through."

We counted at least 5,000 under 10 years of age, at least a thousand of them barefoot and many clad only in a single garment.

"Our car was besieged by a mob of frantic mothers and fathers who held up to us their children with their faces swollen and congested by four days of sun and dust."

He told of a "child dying of dysentery and a mother stolidly watching us with great sunken eyes, crying against her open breast her child born on the road two days before."

"Many old people simply gave up the struggle and laid down beside the road to wait for death," he said, describing the flight as "the most terrible evacuation of a city of modern times."

Denies His Guilt In Two Robberies

Suspect Faces Hearing at Rhinelander; Bail Set at $5,000

Rhinelander, Wis. (P-Wis.)—John Bangert, 44, arrested in Green Bay late yesterday, was arraigned in county court today to charges of aiding and abetting in two robberies in Oneida county last summer. His preliminary hearing was set for tomorrow morning by Judge H. F. Steele and he was held under $5,000 bail. He has denied the charges.

District Attorney O. A. Du Bois announced that Bangert had been named as the "leader" of the gang of tavern and store robbers which broke into a score of places in northern Wisconsin last July, August, September, and October. Confessions by two alleged members of the gang, the district attorney said, indicated Bangert was the chief of the group.

Francis Blondheim, 22, who is under sentence for three tavern robberies, and Louis Nier, 27, awaiting sentence on similar charges, were the men from whom authorities have obtained confessions. District Attorney Du Bois said.

Bangert is charged with counseling and hiring Nier and Blondheim to rob the Black Forest tavern, at three lakes, July 7, and Mrs. Charles Thunell's store, at Wodruif, July 27.

Davin Again Named to State Highway Group

Madison (P-Wis.)—Governor LaFollette reappointed Thomas F. Davin, Berlin, Wis., as chairman of the state highway commission today.

Davin was named to the commission in 1935 and became chairman that year. His term does not expire for six years, but the governor, in every odd-numbered year, appoints one of the three highway commissioners as chairman.

Shock Hurts Lineman To Ground; He's Unhurt

Manitowoc (P-Wis.)—Henry Schmitt, a lineman, suffered nothing more than burns and bruises when a 2,300 volt shock of electricity hurled him to the ground from a 50-foot pole yesterday. A policeman and another lineman revived him after 10 minutes of artificial respiration.

Would Avert Hazards of Disastrous Crop Failures

Washington (P-Wis.)—President Roosevelt recommended to congress today adoption of a system of crop insurance to provide the farmer with a buffer against disastrous crop failures.

He said that such insurance coupled with a system of storage reserves for crop surpluses in good years "would assist in providing a more nearly even flow of farm supplies, thus stabilizing farm buying power; and contributing to the security of business and employment."

"A program of crop insurance and storage of reserves," he said, "should be part of the foundation of agricultural policy which we are building and which must include the conservation of soil and water, better land use, increased farm income, and alleviation of distress in rural areas arising out of factors beyond the control of individual producers."

Submits Report
The president sent to congress with his message a report of his special committee of government officials which planned the insurance program.

Under the program the insured farm would be protected against such natural hazards as drought, grasshoppers, and hail.

The farmer would be protected up to 75 per cent of his normal yield.

Thus if he lost his wheat crop which would have returned him 12 bushels to the acres, he would be protected against nine bushels of the loss. He would be paid either in the commodity or its cash equivalent.

The president recommended that crop insurance be extended to wheat for the crop year 1938.

"I believe that legislation should authorize application of similar programs to other commodities," he said, "when it is established that producers desire them and application of the plan to wheat has provided a back log of experience in applying the principles of crop insurance."

Up to Washington
The committee of federal officials who planned the insurance program told Mr. Roosevelt it was "too large an undertaking for private companies."

They said the federal government could "well afford" to pay "administrative" and overhead costs for the plan to protect farmers against crop losses by drought and other "unavoidable disasters."

Secretary Wallace, chairman of the committee, said the plan "would have the effect of storing up reserves of wheat in years of large crops and releasing them on the market in years of crop failure."

The insurance was not a "substitute" for any other federal farm measures, he said, but rather "supplementary."

Estimating that more than $600,000,000 in federal funds had been expended in the last 10 years for distressed farmers who lost crops, the insurance committee said much of this would be eliminated by "assisting wheat farmers to assist themselves."

Aid to Plains States
The committee report said "wheat crop insurance would probably find its greatest usefulness in the great plains states, where it is perhaps

Women Spies Help Keep Back Rebels In Madrid Attack

Gibraltar (P-Wis.)—A ring of women spies—one of whom died before a firing squad as she cried "Viva la Republica"—was held partly responsible today by Spanish insurgents for General Francisco Franco's failure to smash Madrid's defenses.

The ring's center, reports reaching here said, seemed to be at Grinon, 18 miles south of Madrid, where a large base hospital was made the main theater for the women's work.

Several of the feminine spies were said to have been captured there—caught in the act of questioning soldiers whom ostensibly they had come to comfort and cheer.

Main items of information the women were said to have sought were the number of troops along the front lines, where they were concentrated and the positions of artillery batteries.

At least one of the women spies was reported to have been shot by an executioner's squad in a small village near the capital.

Defiant of her captors to the end as she faced death at her husband's side, the woman lifted her clenched fist in the popular front salute.

Then, as the shots rang out, with her last breath she cried: "Viva la Republica!"

Call Conference To Prepare Dairy Quality Program

Agricultural Committees of 23 Counties to Convene at Green Bay

Agricultural committees from 13 eastern Wisconsin counties have been invited to participate in a conference at the Beaumont hotel, Green Bay, Saturday to discuss possible provisions of a quality program for dairy products in Wisconsin. The meeting will begin at 10 o'clock.

The session has been called by R. C. Schultz, chairman of the Outagamie county agricultural committee, and invitations have been extended to similar committees and county agents in Marinette, Oconto, Shawano, Door, Kewaunee, Brown, Waupaca, Winnebago, Calumet, Manitowish, Sheboygan and Fond du Lac counties.

If a definite program is outlined, an effort probably will be made to bring before the state legislature at the present session.

Schultz's letter to counties asked to participate states in part, "For many years the state of Wisconsin has been groping for a workable quality program for dairy products. We have now come to a point where it is necessary, if we are to keep step with other dairy states, that we initiate a program that will be effective on all dairy farms in the state."

"As chairman of the agricultural committee in Outagamie county I am taking the initiative in inviting your agricultural committee and yourself and the agricultural committees of the surrounding counties to attend a conference at Green Bay at which time we can discuss a quality program."

"A very fine tentative program has been proposed and this will be presented at the Green Bay meeting to the agricultural committees."

"If the agricultural committees are in favor of doing so this program in some form should be presented to the legislature this year."

"Let us put Wisconsin in its proper position with respect to the quality of dairy products."

Number of Horses Higher in State

Gain of 9,000 in Wisconsin Contrary to National Decrease

Proof that utilization of horses on Wisconsin farms is steadily increasing is offered in state department of agriculture statistics received at the office of R. C. Swanson, county agricultural agent.

Although the nation as a whole experienced a 100,000 decrease in number of horses and mules last year, Wisconsin showed a gain of 9,000.

Figures presented by Dr. W. Wisnicky, state director of livestock sanitation, reveal that in 1936 there were 532,000 horses and mules in Wisconsin as compared with 523,000 in 1935, and that the number of horses and mules in the entire country was 16,322,000 in 1936 while in 1935 it was 16,622,000.

A gain of 4,246 in imports of horses in this state is recorded for 1936, with 32,078 horses shipped into Wisconsin as compared with 27,833 for the year previous.

Horse-breeding activities also have increased in Wisconsin. In 1936 there were 835 pederbred licensed stallions in this state while in 1935 there were but 841.

Committee to Study Labor Disputes Bill

Further discussion of the labor disputes bill and others now before the state legislature will take place at the weekly meeting of the Appleton Chamber of Commerce legislative committee Friday afternoon at the chamber offices. Walter Brummond and Herb Heilig have been named to the legislative committee. Other committee members are J. H. Neller, chairman, James H. Dunham, vice-chairman, Robert Deland, Donald DuShane, George E. Johnson, F. E. Sengrenner, William Round, A. H. Wicksberg, William A. Strassburger, Homer E. Benton, Heber H. Pelkey and John R. Riedl.

League Will Conduct Legislative Meeting

Proposed legislative affecting cities and villages will be discussed at a legislative conference to be held by the Wisconsin League of Municipalities at 10 o'clock next Monday morning in the city hall at Madison. Mayor Goodland has been informed by the league secretary. All cities in the league have been asked to send representatives to the meeting.

Hearings on proposed laws of interest to cities and villages will be held by committees of the assembly on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, Feb. 22, 24 and 25.

Roquefort Cheese Taken From Coal, Limestone Mines

BY HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Editor
State College, Pa.—(AP)—Roquefort cheese—American style—is coming out of coal and limestone mines in Pennsylvania.

This new development of the dairy industry was announced today at Pennsylvania State college. The Roquefort cheese bug, penicillium Roqueforti, the green mold which ripens the cheese, loves extraordinary weather. He does his best flavoring at a temperature of 45 to 48 Fahrenheit and a humidity of 85. Air conditioning for this is expensive. But the mines furnish perfect cheese weather.

Penicillium, said R. B. Dahl, assistant professor of chemistry and physics, has been making this Roquefort in an abandoned drift, 400 feet down, in a limestone mine at Bellefonte, Pa.

The mold is placed on a product from cows' milk. He molds away for six weeks to two months. Then the cheese is wrapped in tinfoil so none of the dampness can get out. Six weeks of this and the flavor is done.

Move Is Blocked To Repay Salaries Waived in 1933

with the wage adjustments made recently by the council in other city departments.

Against the advice of Mayor Goodland, the council unanimously voted to set the salaries of the mechanics of the police and fire departments at $152.50. The amount is the same as is paid for the second assistant chief of the fire department and was proposed as a compromise measure.

A proposal to create an office of a full-time city health officer and part-time city physician made by the Appleton Medical society was referred to the relief committee for study.

Amend Dog Ordinance
Because of the numerous complaints of dogs running loose in the city the council voted to amend the city ordinance to make owners keep their dogs tied from April 1 instead of May 1 to Sept. 1.

The council also voted to follow the regulations to be set up by the state legislature in regard to payment of real estate taxes after March 1 and ordered City Treasurer Joseph A. Kox to keep the personal property tax list in his office for collections after the extension time for payment of the taxes without penalty ends March 1.

An attempt to clear up traffic congestion on Richmond street between Franklin and Lorain streets and on Locust street between State and Locust streets will be made by restricting parking to 90 minutes. Mayor Goodland said he had been receiving many complaints from residents near the Zwicker Knitting mill by employees who parked their cars in front of the homes, partially blocking driveways and generally hampering traffic when heavy.

Wage Adjustments
The street department was instructed to consider wage adjustments for employees of the street department with a new scale to be effective about March 15. Mayor Goodland said that the men were averaging from $60 to $70 per month which was not enough to meet the rising cost of living.

Renting of a room at the Odd Fellows hall on E. College avenue for use as a home loan office at $20 per month was approved. Alderman Vogt, chairman of the relief committee, explained that the office would provide employment for four to six persons to be taken from the relief lists. The office will give information to Appleton residents who wish to secure funds under the government plan for remodeling and building homes.

Settlement of a claim of Earl Vanden Bogart, 619 N. Richmond street, for about $350 was approved. Vanden Bogart was injured when he fell from a truck while working for the city during February of last year. He sought compensation for partial disability of his right hand which resulted from broken bones.

UNITED FOR FIGHT ON COURT PLAN

Borah, Republican, Idaho, are shown as they met over a conference table in Washington to map their joint fight on President Roosevelt's plan to reorganize the supreme court. Perhaps Game of Some Sort Could be Made of This

If the postmaster at Kimberly thinks he has a difficult time keeping mail correctly sorted for the two Henry Kilsdons in the village, he should take a try at the job in Little Chute for a short time. According to citizens of the latter village it isn't just a case of keeping one pair of similar names in order but in many instances three, four and five.

To an outsider, who does not know everyone personally, the task would be a hopeless one, they point out in listing the Janssens, Vanden Heuvels, Heitpas and others.

Here are just a few of the many identical names that would cause confusion: five John Janssens, five John Vanden Heuvels, four George Vanden Heuvels, four John Heitpas, three Martin Heitpas, three John Hammons, three Peter Vanden Heuvels, three Albert Heitpas, three Frank Weyenbergers, three John Van Handies and three George Hermans.

And in speaking of the cases in which only two persons bear the same names, the villagers say that they are too numerous to even start listing.

Today and Tomorrow

BY WALTER LIPPMAN

II. The Constitutional Crisis: Shall Congress be Supreme?

As a remedy for judicial obstruction Mr. Morris Ernst in his recent book, "The Ultimate Power," has proposed the adoption of the so-called Madison plan, under which Congress by a vote of two-thirds in both houses could override a decision of the Supreme Court. This would make Congress the final interpreter of the constitution. Congress could not only validate any of its own laws but it could also validate any state law which the courts had challenged. Whether Congress could also declare state laws unconstitutional, even if the Supreme Court upheld them, is something that Mr. Ernst forgot to discuss. I do not know why Mr. Ernst forgot to discuss this point. For if the states are permitted to legislate freely, they could very easily abstract many things which Congress would like to do. So I do not see how Mr. Ernst can escape going the whole hog, and proposing that any law upheld by two-thirds of Congress is the supreme law of the land, and that no federal court, no state court and no state legislature may stand in its way.

It may be that this is one of the reasons why the "Madison Plan" was not adopted by the convention, and was more or less forgotten by every one, including Madison, until Mr. Ernst resurrected it from the limbo of plausible but mistaken notions.

Doesn't Believe Mr. Ernst Will Like His Proposal

I do not think Mr. Ernst will like his own proposal when he re-examines it. For Mr. Ernst really does care for human liberty and for democracy and he has a most honorable record in defending them. What he is proposing is that by a two-thirds vote Congress may do anything it likes. No limitation of any kind upon the authority of two-thirds of Congress is suggested in his book. Mr. Ernst is, of course, thinking of labor laws and social legislation and the regulation of big business; and seeing a Congress in which two-thirds are at the moment for the things he wants, and a president who is also for them, he looks upon making two-thirds of Congress supreme as a democratic and progressive reform.

But he has forgotten his own struggles for the preservation of civil liberty. Suppose his plan were in operation: Congress establishes a censorship of the press, the radio and the arts. What is to prevent it? The First Amendment prevents it now. An editor can defy the censor and the courts will refuse to let him be punished; they will in other words hold that censorship violates the supreme law and is, therefore, not a law that can be enforced. But not under Mr. Ernst's plan. Two-thirds of Congress have only to vote that the court is overridden and the defiant editor goes to jail. A Congress creates an established religion, say like the Tennessee law against teaching evolution. Mr. Bryan thought that was constitutional. Some new Bryan would have only to persuade two-thirds of Congress. Mr. Hearst's teachers' oath is adopted by Congress and applied to all schools in the United States. There is nothing to prevent it if two-thirds of Congress are determined to demand the oath.

Does Mr. Ernst Really Believe It Could Happen Here

Does Mr. Ernst really think such things could not happen here when propaganda is a high-powered industry?

Mr. Ernst does not discuss this aspect of his plan. He is bemused with the notion that "The ultimate power of government" must "flow without hindrance from the people to their elected responsive officials." This is a simple but fundamental miscalculation. Mr. Ernst thinks that by making Congress supreme he is making it supremely responsive to the people. On the contrary, he is enabling the Supreme Congress to be completely unresponsive to the people and depriving the people of their ultimate power.

For what is there in his scheme which would prevent the two-thirds majority from unseating the minority as the Socialist assemblymen were unseated in New York after the war? Nothing whatever. Mr. Ernst may say that there is an appeal to the people at the next election. But what is there to prevent a two-thirds majority from declaring that there will be no next election? That in substance was what the German Reichstag voted. It is all very well to say that this could not happen here. But any one who has studied the dictatorship of Huey Long in Louisiana will do well not to be too trusting when the fundamental liberties of the people are concerned.

Plan Deprives People of Their Sovereign Power

As a matter of fact, Mr. Ernst's plan, though I am afraid he has not realized it, not only makes two-thirds of Congress supreme but deprives the people of their sovereign power. The scheme abolishes not merely the judicial review and the federal system but any constitution whatever. For, even if the people initiated and ratified a new constitutional amendment, two-thirds of Congress would ignore it and do whatever it chose.

I believe not only that Congress could but that sooner or later it would. For my observation tells me that the human craving for power is insatiable and that it grows by what it feeds upon, and I am confirmed in this view by the spectacle of American liberals, so bent upon the attainment of their immediate ends that they are prepared to establish a system of government in which all liberty and all democracy in America would be staked on the outcome of one election. If liberal Democrats are willing to do that, what in the name of the Great Jehovah will the enemies of liberty and democracy do when they win an election?

Constitutional Fathers Saw Dangers of Democracy

I submit that the constitutional fathers of 1789 discerned more surely than does Mr. Ernst the dangers and difficulties of democracy today. The doctrine of the supremacy of the legislature, which Mr. Ernst advocates and they rejected, is a greater peril to democracy today than it was in 1789. They knew what demagogues had done to the republics of the ancient world. But they had not seen the new demagoguery based on the radio and the press and other modern instruments of propaganda. We have seen majorities elected in moments of hysteria and crises who voted away their rights. We have seen democracies commit suicide by the acts of their representatives, and we have seen the result ratified by manufactured plebiscites.

And so I say that those who would make the legislature supreme in order to achieve social legislation in a hurry, are burning down the barn to roast the pig. Surely it is unnecessary to do this, and tomorrow I shall venture to suggest a line of thought by which we may be able to find a way to roast the pig without burning down the barn.

$50,000 Fund Proposed for Oiling Roads

Highway Committee Recommends Money be Taken From General Fund

What Board Did:

Heard recommendation for $50,000 oiling appropriation. Discussed committee reports on proposed state legislation. Passed resolutions providing for asphalt addition bond issue.

A $50,000 appropriation from the general fund for oiling of county roads during the coming summer was recommended by the county highway committee at this morning's session of the county board.

The amount needed could be placed on the tax roll at the next November session, the committee suggested. Under the rules, action on the recommendation was deferred until Friday.

No mention has been made during the current meeting of the board of Appleton's request for a $50,000 paving appropriation. The request was made at the November session but was deferred until February.

The committee also submitted a report on a petition from a number of residents of New London and Shiocton villages for measures to prevent spring flood damage. The committee said highways contributing to Embarras river flood conditions were in Waupaca county but that the matter would be taken up with officials there.

Urges Action
Supervisor Boutwell, Appleton, submitted pictures of flood conditions in the northern part of the county and urged consideration of remedial measures.

The board today spent considerable time discussing recommendations of the legislative committee on proposed state legislation, particularly 119A which exempts homesteads up to $5,000 from being obligated to be transferred to the county in securing old age assistance and which would cancel all transfers of property less than $5,000 made prior to July 1, 1937, and 37A which would provide for a state police radio system.

The committee voted no on the pension property bill. Chairman Mack held, however, that a certain amount should be exempt from transfers when pensions are granted, holding that it is too much to expect an aged couple to pay taxes, insurance and upkeep on their homes if they receive only a small amount of pension and must turn their property over to the county.

Consider Taxes
Supervisor Schulz of the committee maintained however that the $5,000 exemption would merely give to the heirs what the state and municipality paid for. Supervisor O'Connor pointed out that taxes and similar costs are taken into consideration when pensions are granted.

The committee reported "no recommendation" on the radio bill after considerable discussion it was referred back to the committee. Supervisor Bonini held that the director should be non-partisan and that use of the radio system in labor and strike disputes should not be barred.

Appleton chamber of commerce representatives will be invited to meet with the board at 10:30 Friday morning relative to bill 116A.

Committee Votes No
The bill would permit cities to have a county supervisor for each precinct, citing difficulties in Fond du Lac county where such a system is in operation. Bonini said he was opposed to the measure. The committee also voted against the proposed law.

A petition of 15 supervisors, seeking action to protect the county's interests in Outagamie Paper company property at Kaukauna was referred to the executive committee. The county has about $65,000 due from the property in taxes; the petition stated.

An executive committee report suggested that the county offer to pay the mortgage and interest on the Grignon property at Kaukauna, cancel pension claims against the property of about $1560 and pay taxes amounting to $250, if the city of Kaukauna or the Outagamie County Pioneer society will undertake to maintain the place.

Will Pay Interest
Use of the property as a county park has been advocated, but no action was taken on the committee report today. A motion to defer a vote until March was approved.

Resolutions providing for a $75,000 bond issue to build the county asylum addition were passed today. Similar action was taken in November but new resolutions were necessary to meet legal requirements.

The sheriff's committee, in an inventory report showing that some equipment, including two pistols and a set of handcuffs were missing from last year, recommended that the department keep a perpetual inventory.

Supervisor Boutwell, head of the committee, said Sheriff John Lapen has been giving the committee excellent cooperation.

By a standing vote, the supervisors expressed sympathy to James Wood, Mrs. Wood who died recently was a member of the county health committee for many years.

FIREMEN DISCUSS PLANS FOR INCREASING EFFICIENCY OF DEPARTMENTS

needed the most because of wide fluctuations in yield, and where most of the nation's wheat is produced.

It suggested the insurance plan be voluntary but that participating farmers be urged to join in other federal farm programs.

The committee said that if the insurance plan had operated in important wheat states the last six years, the greatest deficit any one time would have been 70,000,000 bushels under premiums and the greatest surplus, 70,000,000 bushels.

Federal officials estimated that $100,000,000 to $150,000,000 would be needed to set up the plan and establish adequate reserves and pay necessary costs.

Secretary Wallace brought to a congressional committee today his opinion that the far-reaching administration proposals to aid 2,865,000 tenant farmers would not injure large land owners.

"I don't subscribe to the doctrine that if you held the people at the bottom you hurt the people at the top," Wallace told reporters. "In the long run you help everybody."

He was called before the house agriculture committee shortly before congress received from President Roosevelt the message recommending a crop insurance system.

A third segment of his farm program, Wallace disclosed, will go to congress in the next week or two. It will be a presidential message suggesting a processing tax on sugar. A month ago the secretary proposed a levy of one-half or 1 cent a pound.

Parents are Told Missing Student Was Not in Neenah

That Thorwald Christensen, 21-year-old University of Illinois student missing since Saturday is not and has not been in Neenah was indicated today after a search by Neenah police.

A report that Christensen might have gone to Neenah apparently was based on a visit to Neenah paper mills by another Illinois student, it was said.

Police Chief Charles Watts said today a message sent to the parents of the missing student, stating that the youth had been in Neenah, was a mistake.

The chief said that so far as he could learn Christensen never had been in the city. He said he had advised Christensen's parents a message stating their son had left Neenah Monday night was erroneous.

The car, thrown about 15 feet, was demolished and the cab steps of the engine were ripped off in the accident. Hoelzel, who was driving west on Maloney road, said he saw the train but was unable to stop his car because of the slippery condition of the road. The train was slowing down for a stop at the passenger depot about a block north of the crossing.

Hoelzel was cut about his ear and suffered body bruises and his son also sustained cuts about the face and body bruises. They were treated by a Kaukauna physician.

Kill Rohan's Bill To Set $5 License For Automobiles

Kaukauna Assemblyman Makes Desperate Fight But Loses

(Post-Crescent Madison Bureau)
Madison—Despite a determined fight by the author, Assemblyman William H. Rohan, (D.), Kaukauna, the assembly Tuesday evening, by a vote of 57 to 35, killed the $5 license registration fee bill, which Rohan told the assembly, has been requested by the farmers and laborers of Kaukauna, Little Chute, and other communities in his second Outagamie county district.

Repeating his previous arguments, that it was a labor measure, that it would not have cut highway revenues as severely as feared, and that many owners of automobiles who cannot now afford to pay the registration fee would once more get their cars on the highways, thus increasing gasoline tax revenues, Rohan led the fight on the floor for his bill. He was assisted by other members, principally James T. Budlong, (R.), Antigo, and C. A. Budlong, (R.), Marinette.

Principal and most effective opposition to the measure came from the Progressives, largest party bloc in the house, whose committee on highways had reported the bill unfavorably last week.

Reduce Revenues
Assemblyman David Sigman, after a period of lively debate declared that Rohan's bill would reduce state highway revenues at least four millions annually and probably six millions. One appropriation bill after another is being rejected in the legislature, he said, for lack of funds, and now Mr. Rohan proposes to reduce present available revenue resources. Sigman admitted that license registration fees are actually for purposes of revenue, whereupon Rohan jumped up with the challenge:

"You will yourself a labor leader," he shouted. (Sigman in the official directory lists himself as a labor organizer). "Do you want to go on record in favor of the idea that the laborer should pay more than $5 for a license?"

Sigman replied that he did desire to be so recorded. "The laborer will be ready and happy to pay more if he gets the wages."

Out of Order
Rohan, without asking leave for the speaker to speak a third time, and disregarding the pounding of the gavel, was ruled out of order as he replied. "But he doesn't get the wages."

Opposing the bill in the Progressive ranks, besides Sigman were E. D. Hall, Monroe, chairman of the assembly highways committee, who maintained that local communities would suffer if state highway revenues are reduced, and Paul R. Alfonsi, speaker of the assembly, who relinquished the chair to former speaker Charles Perry of Milwaukee in order to participate in the debate on the floor.

Alfonsi, presumably expressing the administration's attitude, declared that Rohan's was neither a labor or a farmer measure. If the bill were to pass it would lower highway funds to the statutory sums apportioned to counties and municipalities, leaving nothing for the state's highway expansion, maintenance and snow removal programs, and nothing to grant appropriations for the 36 highway bills already received in the legislature this session, he said.

Humor entered the proceedings when Mr. Budlong told Highway Chairman Hall that he argued as a dealer in road machinery might. Another member, remarked that Rohan's bill was not his baby, and that he didn't care what disposition was made of it, which led Acting Speaker Charles Perry to exclaim that it became "a very unmythical baby."

Here's Roll Call

The roll call showed for rejection of the bill: Baker, Barber, Barnes, Beggs, Bergeren, Berquist, Biemiller, Blomquist, Carlson, Daugs, Engstrom, Franzkowiak, Fuhrman, Goldhorpe, Grobowski, E. O. Hall, M. H. Hall, Halverson, Handrich, Hanson, Harvey, Hemmy.

board he would have told the supervisors to take their own downstairs after each day and rinse it out.

Chairman Mack pointed out that such jobs as that were considered when the janitors' salaries were set but Jacobs retorted that they were under paid.

Supervisor Schulz suggested that the trouble might not be that those who expected chose the wrong spots, but rather that the cuspidors were not placed where people spit. The resolution, put to vote, resulted in a chorus of ayes. Jacobs voted no loudly, but it was a solo.

The measure went into considerable detail. It was signed by Supervisors Sigman, Lathrop, Otis, Muenster, Bonini, Long, Spering, Konrad and Mueller, and stated:

"Whereas, by order of the grounds and buildings committee cuspidors have been eliminated from the offices, courtrooms and halls of the Outagamie county courthouse, and

"Whereas, spitting in public places is forbidden by law, and

"Whereas, it has never been shown to the satisfaction of this county board that tobacco chewers, cigar and pipe smokers are less in number than in former years, and

"Whereas, the various corners in the halls, offices and courtrooms are beginning to assume a suspiciously dark appearance, and

"Whereas, section 146.08 of Wisconsin statutes requires that cuspidors be furnished and efficiently placed in convenient places in all public and quasi-public buildings upon an order of the local board of health, now therefore,

"Be it resolved, that the grounds and buildings committee remedy this matter immediately by restoring in the places usually and formerly occupied by them the cuspidors that have been removed from the Outagamie county courthouse."

Hipke, Kell, Hocsly, Hupfaut, Jackson, Hitt, Kennedy, Kiefer, Koegel, Kostuck, Kremer, Larson, Lingelbach, Lomsdahl, Ludvigsen, Millar, Mueller, Nehs, Niemuth, Perry, Peterson, E. C. Pritchard, Rubin, Schenk, Schilling, Sigman, Swanson, Thomson, Trego, Van Guilder, Vaughan, Woerth, Youngblood, Alfonsi.

Against rejection, or for the bill: Baker, Biehler, Budlong, Cathin, Cavanaugh, Fitzsimmons, Fritz, Garvens, Genzmer, Grassman, Grosvenor, Howard, Krosken, Krueger, Laack, Lytle, McIntyre, Meisner, Murphy, Murray, Nelson, R. W. Peterson, Pyszczyński, Rakow, Rice, Roche, Rohan, Ryan, Schowalter, Shimek, Sieb, Sweeney, Tehan, Wegner, Yindra, and Young.

BANKS AND THEIR DEPOSITORS

The Comptroller of the Currency reports that during the past year no national bank has failed. This, it is contended, establishes a 55-year record.

We have no doubt about the facts. But we ought to be ashamed of the conclusion. In other words, for a period of 55 years banks have failed every year with the exception of that just passed.

"Pride goeth before a fall in the supervision of banks as well as in other institutions. It will be better not to get too exalted an idea of the security of banks just as it will also be better to obtain a just conclusion in that respect.

Banks are sound in this country today. They are sounder than at any time during the last 55 years or any other period of time.

But they are sound because all the errors of government through the generations were cut away just as so much proud flesh by one operation. Literally thousands of banks were closed. Perhaps 90 per cent of those closed never should have been opened in the first instance.

But the same government that permitted banks to operate when they could not be operated at a profit also permitted methods of operation that were bound in time to bring any institution down into the dust.

We are going to have sound banks just so long as we have sound bankers and a sound system of governmental supervision. Strange to say sound bankers are easier to obtain than sound governmental supervision.

After the great upheaval caused by failing banks all over the country it was to be expected that the government would enforce strict supervision, but experience has demonstrated on too many occasions to doubt it that as times become easy again supervision will become just as easy. Then the country will have to depend upon the sound bankers.

At the same time it will be wise for people to observe the unhappy result when those with funds conceal them around the house only to lose them through any one of a long line of mishaps, even like the fire that destroyed $60,000.00 of savings of a Chicago woman recently.

No doubt bankers are not particularly concerned if people want to keep their money in rat holes. There is insufficient profit in banking at the present time according to the complaints of many men who are engaged in that profession. Banks cling to their deposits because of hope that a sufficient demand for money will some day materialize to the extent of returning banking to its former prominent position.

CABBAGE DISAPPOINTMENT

Cornell's odorless cabbage, expected to be the result of two years experimentation in the University Agricultural Station and announced for commerce this year, still has an odor. True, it is a milder odor, permitting the scientists to hope that it is really on the way out and may finally be eliminated according to plan.

The work so far has not been lost, anyway. In aiming for a cabbage that won't fill the house with an unpleasant aroma while it cooks, the scientists have developed a greatly improved variety. Fine, large, firm heads are not to be scorned, with or without the smell.

After all, was the odor ever so obnoxious as its reputation—except when the vegetable was overcooked? Your true lover of corned-beef-and-cabbage never objected to it. Nor did the admirer of New England boiled dinner. Raw cabbage in slaw or salad is almost odorless and doesn't have its vitamins boiled to death. Let the scientists go on seeking the scentless variety. They will learn much about plant-breeding, and in the meantime their work don't deprive us of cabbage, cooked or raw.

A HOLD-UP LADY

The worst thing about most hold-ups is that the hold-uppers are so rough about it. Often they are thugs who seem to take as much pleasure in the fright and pain they inflict as they do in their evil gains.

It is refreshing, then—if anything in such criminal business can be so—to read of the hold-up perpetrated by a young lady in New York. The term "lady" is used advisedly. Simply and tastefully dressed, she entered an all-night restaurant, bought a pack of cigarets from the manager, opened her purse to drop them in, and then, as he opened the cash drawer she said in a quiet, genteel voice: "Please give me what you have."

The surprised manager, shooting a look at her, noticed a shiny little pistol pointing at him from the handbag, and handed over his money without a word. She thanked him and walked out as quietly as she had come in. And all this in the presence of a policeman who never suspected anything.

Yes, courtesy pays. Most of us, if we have to be robbed, would rather have it done in this charming way.

A DUTY OF CITIZENS

Apparently Congressional blocs will not be long in forming. Washington correspondents have been saying that blocs may prove to be the greatest impediments to the steam-roller democratic majorities in both houses. Few of them have foreseen the formation of a powerful bloc so soon, or have anticipated that the first concerted resistance to executive suggestion would be in opposition to defense appropriations.

In asking $880,000,000 for defense purposes, the President stirs the first rumblings of opposition from a group of westerners, principally Senators Nye and Frazier, North Dakota republicans, and Wheeler, Montana democrat. Mr. Roosevelt's recommendation that the keels shall be laid for two fifty million dollar battleships draws the heaviest fire, though the money needed to commence construction is ear marked. The attitude of the opposition is that this nation is safer from attack than any other though we are setting the pace for all nations in peace-time military expenditures.

The army, alone, will spend this year about $370,000,000, an increase of more than 70 per cent over its expenditures only two years ago. So far, the army program has aroused less opposition. Inland constituencies always are less impressed with naval needs, real or suggested.

The whole problem of national defense is tied up with larger problems, the further moves which may be taken in an effort to guarantee this nation's neutrality in any future war, our attitude in the evolving Spanish-Moroccan crisis, the whole broad subject of future war anywhere in the world and the stand we shall take in any conceivable future event.

The "peace at any price" label has not been attached as yet to the bloc now forming in Congress in opposition to increased appropriations for preparedness purposes. It is, however, already suggested that support will be found for a proposed Congressional amendment which would forbid the United States to engage in any war or to spend money for military purposes.

Congressmen as always will in the main represent the will of the several constituencies when these momentous problems are debated. The problems are momentous, affecting as they do the possible future peace and security of every American.

Every citizen should inform himself about the problems involved. It is not necessary that he shall be included with the majority. It is vitally necessary that he shall understand the issues.

THE JUDICIAL MIND

The courts in Germany are again in dispute. Nazi faces are scowling blackly at a recent decision concerning the purity of the German blood.

It appears that over in Dusseldorf a childless couple determined to perform a high rate of civilization by adopting a nameless waif, an orphan. They went through the ceremony provided by law which is much the same the world over. They agreed in writing to accept the child as theirs. Notice was given in the usual manner so that any one who had an objection might speak up. After the hearing the court entered the solemn order declaring that the state of parent-hood existed between this good couple and the nameless youngster.

Time passed on and, as time often will, turned up in its long furrow unexpected conditions and evidence.

Stating the case as it was put by a Nazi newspaper:

"Imagine the foster parents' horror when the child developed typically Jewish characteristics, and an investigation showed that its father was a Jew."

The adoptive parents, whether stirred to the depths by Nazi propaganda or kicked by Nazi boots, returned to the court with the child and asked to be relieved of such a terrible burden.

The court considered, explained, and justified. It said it could give no relief. The adoption proceedings were all in due form. The people had accepted the child. No one had misrepresented to them. To now void the situation would mean the breach of long accepted law.

Nazi emissaries in brown shirts stared at the court. The court stared back. It dismissed the proceedings. The Nazis stormed out. Their newspaper stormed some more. Something must be done about it.

The courts are old fogies. They need new blood, good, pure, German blood. They must get the modern political idea. Perhaps those German judges are over 70 years of age.

NO worries about the weather from now on, folks. I see where the first big league baseball team has left for spring training . . . of course, the team in question is going to Cuba to do its training, but just the idea that somebody is doing something about spring is comforting in itself . . . the time has not arrived as yet to take off the red flannels, however, and until you get word from Dee Jay Cee, who has been very helpful about informing us when to doff them in the past, keep 'em on . . . another indication that spring is practically on us is the increasing worry of various people about paying their income taxes . . . the deadline on paying income taxes comes just a week before the first official day of spring . . .

PROTEST

That which turns folks to Daffy creatures
Is still, I swear, those Double features.

It's gotten so now that you have to take a lunch, a couple of pillows and arrange for the neighbors to watch the fire while you go to the movies.

And then you come home having seen so much that you wonder wotnell it was that you saw.

Although Mickey Mouse, Popeye and the other animated cartoons seem to be more easily remembered.

Imagine the growing menace to our happy homes and well-regulated households when, any day now, you may expect to see little girls standing outside of theatre doors begging the ushers to find out "Is my momma in there? She hasn't been home since last week."

Mayor Kelly of Chicago is asking the federal government for forty million bucks to get Chicago started on an elevated highway and a subway. It is not entirely likely that Chicago will get the improvement, however, although any midwesterner will immediately concede the fact that a subway would be a real aid to the city, and that the elevated highway would cut Chicago's traffic death toll.

It is possible, however, that the Passamaquoddy project of harnessing the tides and the moon may be renewed—Prexy Roosevelt was quite insistent on this point a while ago—and that the dizzy Florida ship canal may be revived.

In fact, it appears that almost anything is possible.

Except getting all the bills paid.

A Verse for Today

By Anne Campbell

TO MY CHILD

Sometimes when I lie down to rest,
With all my planning done,
Dear little child I have caressed,
How straight your path will run!

No power can tempt your feet to stray!
Temptation will not bend
Your will—as true and fresh as day—
To any direful end.

You who have been my soul's delight,
The weaver of my code,
Will ever tread the path of right—
You know no other road!

Noted Physician and Author

A HABIT FORMING DRUG

According to the United States Pharmacopoeia, which is the legal standard for medicines or drugs, (as is the British Pharmacopoeia in Canada) acetanilid, the main ingredient of scores of popular remedies offered for "colds," grip, headache, neuralgia, neuritis, rheumatism, insomnia, lumbago, fatigue, worry and whatnot, is "analgesic (pain-numbing) and heart depressant, a habit-forming drug which, if used over a long period of time, may produce severe anemia."

One of our readers who says he is 31 years old gives his experience with the use of acetanilid over a long period of time. He says he became addicted to the drug by taking a certain kind of patent medicine (he does not name the patent medicine), and for about four years he took from 15 to 20 grains of acetanilid in this form every day. Then through an article in this column he learned the dangers of its use. He stopped it immediately and has not touched acetanilid in any form nor desired it in the two years since. He has been carefully examined by several good physicians and they have found heart, lungs and everything normal and the blood in perfect condition—he never told the doctors why he came for examination. So it would seem the acetanilid over a long period of time has had no ill effect, and the reader wonders whether some persons are less susceptible to the blood-depressing or heart-poisoning effects of acetanilid than others.

Perhaps if one knows how many acetanilid addicts there are who use the drug in one form or another as a regular habit over a long period of time—but one so seldom does learn of such a habit unless the victim happens to consult a medical information or health advice.

The sense-deadening or dulling effect of acetanilid is of course the only reason for taking such a drug at all. So far as the lowering of fever is concerned, no such effect is desirable, nor does it happen unless a poisonous dose is taken. This is the reason why I urge persons who are "threatened with" or coming down with any illness, call it cold or what you will, to eschew popular remedies containing such analgesics as acetanilid or aspirin. Better to endure the malaise or wretched feelings than to take heart-depressant, blood-depressing drugs which interfere with the vital oxygen-carrying function of the blood and numb the consciousness. I earnestly believe it is always safer neglecting or not treating an alleged "cold," "grip" or any similar illness than it is taking such drugs in the childish belief that they cure anything.

A characteristic untoward effect of an ordinary dose or usual effect of an overdose or poisonous accumulation of many doses of acetanilid is cyanosis, blueness of lips, finger nails, perhaps a livid color of the whole body. This is the result of conversion of the hemoglobin in the blood to methemoglobin with destruction of red corpuscles. Methemoglobin cannot carry oxygen to the body cells and tissues.

Maybe readers who have taken acetanilid over a long period of time will tell us what their experience has been.

Seen And Heard In New York

BY GEORGE TUCKER

New York—Mark Barron recalls the time Ben Hecht decided to write scenarios on a day by day salary arrangement.

A west coast studio wanted him to dramatize an original for the screen, and when its agent raised the vulgar subject of money, Hecht declared:

"I will write for $100 a day."

"The representative wired this stipulation to his superiors and received this telegram in reply: 'Terms okay. Offer Hecht contract $700 week.'"

"Listen," stormed the author, "didn't I tell you $100 a day?"

Patiently the agent pointed out that $700 a week was the same as $100 a day.

"That makes no difference," Hecht screamed. "It's $100 a day or nothing."

But, that wasn't all. The author decided a trans-continental train ride was a lonely, lonely journey, and he demanded that the studio provide him with a traveling companion, as well as pay all expenses.

Perhaps it is little episodes like this that explain why Hollywood producers are considered madmen!

Maria De Kammerer, the artist, gave a farewell party for herself in her studio off Madison avenue the other night, but she won't be away long. She had departed for Libby Holman's home in the California desert to paint the torch singer's young son.

I arrived just in time to hear a guest from Boston declare:

"Yes, I had a lot of fun in the south. I've just visited there. Of course, southerners never get very far in business, and they aren't very intellectual, but sometimes you find people there who know how to entertain."

By a horrible mischance this observation was spilled in the presence of four southerners—a North Carolinian, two Louisianans and a Texan. Curbing accents, they promptly agreed with the Back Bay lad, and led him deeper into the entanglement of his own snare. This wasn't exactly cricket, but then you ought to know whom you are talking to before you go around making witless remarks.

Ruth Millard tells me a new crime game is so good that the police and G-men are among its most avid devotees. This is "Jury Box," and its author is Roy Post, a cousin of Milton Berle, the comic. Long interested in detecting crime, Post has a collection of microscopes worth $10,000, which are tops for trapping elusive finger-prints.

Charles Darrow also has a new game—Bulls and Bears—and its creator is responsible for introducing more counterfeit money into American homes than any single citizen. He is the real estate minded one who struck it rich on "Monopoly" and thereby revolutionized the game industry.

Your Birthday

"PISCES"

If February 19 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 10:45 a. m. to 12:45 p. m., from 3:45 to 5:45 p. m. and from 7:45 to 9:45 p. m. The danger periods are from 8:45 to 10:45 a. m., from 5:45 to 7:45 p. m. and from 9:45 to 11:45 p. m.

If your birth anniversary is February 19, you were born under the Zodiacal sign, PISCES, so you ought to be generous, affectionate and sympathetic. Your logic should be sound, and your conclusions very rational. You are probably unusually good natured. A lover of animals, you may be able to exercise a remarkable influence over them. You can take misfortune with a smile, and overcome it by optimistic perseverance. You seldom start anything that you cannot finish. You know the art of making people feel at home. Consideration for the feelings and comfort of others is one of your many admirable traits. You have little patience with people who are careless, or disorderly in their habits. Your thoughts when expressed, as well as your actions, many times must show a vast amount of originality. Your personal appearance probably receives much consideration, and you appreciate art in all its varied forms. As this day, FRIDAY, is generally considered the most favorable day for those born on this date, this should be a lucky day for you. Your birth stones are the Chrysolite and Moonstone. The daffodil, tube rose, and water lily are natal flowers of Pisceans. Married and engaged couples, as well as those expecting to become betrothed to a Piscean may discover that those born on this date require a great deal of affection, as well as personal attention.

If a woman and February 19 is your birthday, deep violet-blue should be one of your favorite colors, to which your nerves will react favorably. You are apt to be very methodical, with an intense dislike of confusion and crowds. Neatness is an obsession with you. As an office executive, dietician, artist, or author you will win great praise. The child born on February 19, from the time it walks and talks, is generally very patient, gentle, imaginative, and inclined to be extremely idealistic.

If a man and February 19 is your natal day, you may be easily imposed upon. You are very observant, but a poetic nature may tend to make you impractical. As a writ-

A Bystander In Washington

BY PRESTON GROVER

Washington — The ingenious G-man chief, J. Edgar Hoover, who disputes with the press how it should conduct itself during kidnap hunts, seemingly scores one point in the quick solution of the kidnapping and murder of 67-year-old Dr. J. C. B. Davis of Willow Springs, Mo.

At the same time the case invited new argument upon the subject of the harm or help of the press in covering crime stories.

Mr. Hoover said at a cocktail party recently that in attempting to solve the kidnapping of little Charles Mattson recently at Tacoma his men were handicapped by reporters. He wondered whether it might not have been possible to save the child's life if reporters had been less diligent in following the story.

Reporters of Tacoma papers in particular, he said, trailed Dr. Mattson, father of the boy, so closely that even had there been opportunity, it would have been well nigh impossible for the doctor to meet the abductor.

Mr. Hoover's idea
His idea of an ideal kidnapping situation, it would appear, is one in which reporters are kept ignorant of the kidnapping of prominent John Sandoss until he is brought back alive, or dead.

That court was pursued in the recent kidnapping and murder of Dr. Davis. Newspapers were kept in the dark as to the kidnapping, the ransom note and the arrest of a suspect who led officers to the body. G-men had charge throughout.

Mr. Hoover's argument that it is easier to bring back the victim alive if news reporters keep out of it, has no support in the Davis case, since the physician's evidence was killed three or four hours after the abduction. But the capture of the gangling farm youth came quickly, and that may feather Mr. Hoover's hat even though the newspapers can point out that the crime was amateurishly committed.

What Mr. Hoover so often overlooks is that the intense publicity attending a major crime and the subsequent criminal search reaches farther than any of his G-men.

Publicity Helps

No doubt his own crime hunting has been aided time after time by clues furnished by persons kept alert by news stories. For years after commission of crimes that remain unsolved, tips dribble into the police, mostly useless but at times "hot." Veteran prosecutors will admit in the privacy of their offices that their cases have been "saved" by volunteered tips.

One who often testified to that was the late Senator Walsh of Montana whose Teapot Dome investigation he conducted in which the public had been directed by a public war by persistent news coverage. Reporters as a rule will confess they are no great shakes as detectives but they do have another weapon — publicity — that works while even Mr. Hoover sleeps.

A Nation-Wide Protest

Editor Post-Crescent: We are told by those in the know that the only hope of forestalling President Roosevelt in his program for bringing the judiciary department under the control of the executive is a loud nation-wide protest against it. Such a protest ought to make it clear to the members of congress that, whatever may be their indebtedness to the Roosevelt machine, they should not allow their indebtedness to the citizenry by whose votes they were elected is greater.

With a congress that has abdicated its function as the legislative branch of the government, and a supreme court the creature of the executive, all pretense at democracy would be a farce, and we would have a one-man government just as truly as Germany and Italy.

Granted that it would be a more benevolent and humanitarian government than that of Hitler and Mussolini. Mr. Roosevelt cannot live indefinitely, and even though he may be, as one of my friends claims, the greatest president since Washington, we cannot expect another like him. And a less inflexible man as his successor would find, ready to his hand, the instrumentation for a dictatorship no less ruthless and cruel than that of Hitler.

Let us hope that some patriot, some statesman, may arise, — some Paul Reverie, who shall sound the alarm in every village and town — so that we shall have mass meetings and petitions from one end of the country to the other, against the further overthrow of popular government in America!

National Defense System Relies on Army of Citizens

Plan Makes United States Peaceful Nation, Kiwanians Told

"America is a peaceful nation but we should not have such confidence in our own peaceful intentions as to feel that we do not need an army and navy," Major A. M. Mixson, regular army instructor attached to Wisconsin National Guard units in this section of the state, told Appleton Kiwanis club in a talk Wednesday noon at the Conway hotel. "There are many potential aggressors in the world today looking with covetous eyes upon our lands and wealth and quite willing to take them from us if we are not willing or are unable to protect them."

Pointing out that organized society is based upon police power, even to the small communities, the major said that if armed forces are necessary where people are neighbors and fellow-citizens, then armed forces are necessary to protect a country against other races and other countries.

Recalling that the military policy of the United States is outlined in the National Defense Act of 1920, Major Mixson said "the system places ultimate reliance for defense upon a citizen army, the great proportion of which must be organized, trained and equipped after the beginning of an emergency. This system will entail a delay of several months between any declaration of war and the time that large scale operations could be initiated. Thus the plan is its own proof of non-aggressive intent."

Funds Were Slashed

For many years after passage of the defense act military appropriations were slashed annually until in 1935 the government realized that practically everything we had in the way of equipment was outmoded and our trained man power had reached a new low mark, the major said. The awakening has resulted in unusually large appropriations, that of 1936 being the largest in peace time history, but entirely necessary to replace obsolete and worn out naval vessels and equipment and to modernize and mechanize the army.

"We still are using a rifle model 1903, a fine weapon in its day, but now definitely outmoded," Major Mixson reminded his audience. "It is but necessary to read of the developments in foreign nations to realize that the United States had lagged far behind."

Major Mixson then reviewed the various branches of the service. He called the regular army, which now is being built up to 165,000 men but which still is a small fraction of the instruction branch of the service.

The national guard is numerically the strongest of the army's components and its mission is a vitally important one, he said, recalling that it is composed of loyal citizens giving up much of their leisure time to receive in instruction and therefore they should have the loyal support and cooperation of the various communities in getting the best of equipment and an opportunity to attend summer training camps.

Discusses Reserves

The third component of the Army of the United States is the Officers Reserve Corps and the Enlisted Reserve Corps, also composed of civilians who have given over their spare time to receiving instruction so that they may form the nucleus of a reserve unit to be organized only in the event of national emergency, the speaker said. Members of the two corps receive training once every three years for a 2-weeks period and by taking correspondence work and attending meetings and lectures. However, it has insufficient officers and they receive insufficient training, the major added.

As reserve officers become too old or fail to pass physical examinations or lose interest in the reserve corps their places are filled by graduates of Reserve Officers' Training Corps in universities and colleges, Major Mixson said. But their training, too, is far from as thorough as it might be for the members of junior units receive only three hours' instruction a week and members of senior units five hours per week. Much of their worth lies in the fact they have the benefits of higher education and with a little military knowledge can be whipped into fairly competent officers in a short time should the emergency arise.

The Citizens Military Training Camps also prepare boys to become officers if they successfully complete four periods of 30-days each and correspondence work and are able to pass the required examinations, according to the major, who said the camps were an opportunity to become an officer for boys who often are unable to attend colleges and universities.

Need Navy Second to None

Major Mixson also emphasized the need for a navy second to none because a navy to defend our coasts is our first line of defense and the fact has been recognized in reducing the army branches to practically a minimum. The major cited figures to show how poorly the United States rates with other countries and said that need to overcome our deficiencies has resulted in the high navy budgets.

He closed his talk with the reminder that many of our defense costs run high because we are willing to pay more to soldiers and sailors than other countries and that we pay more for equipment because of our higher standards of living and resultant costs of equipment.

Tells Need For Training Of Leaders

SPREADING the need for training in Girl Scouting, the qualifications of a scout leader and the place of Girl Scouting in the field of group work, Miss Dorothy Calnin, local director, conducted the first of a series of leaders' training course sessions last night at the Y. M. C. A. Miss Calnin emphasized the opportunity leaders have of using the program in the development of the individual girl through her voluntary group association and she outlined the scope of the course which will include 16 hours of training.

One hour will be devoted to a study of the Girl Scout movement and the national, regional and local set-up, said Miss Calnin. The hours will be given over to the Girl Scout and her needs, eight hours will be used for the Girl Scout program, skills, techniques and materials, and three hours will be taken for the study of the leader, her needs, responsibilities and importance in the organization.

Held Discussions The leaders took part in discussion groups last night, learned game techniques for Girl Scout skills, formed patrols and learned new songs. The session opened with the formation of patrols and the naming of them. One group was named the Rock Hound patrol and the other the Pine patrol. Each gave its suggestions for training to be included in the course.

The patrols took part in discussions on the benefit of active patrol systems and court of honor activities as well as the value of long term planning for troops. Interest groups on second class activities were held, the one on nature requirements for second class being led by Miss Marion Neumann and the other on second class observation by Miss Calnin. Leaders in these groups discussed means of presenting the work on these requirements attractively, means of creating interest and building the interest to a more advanced point in first class work. Girl Scout songs were learned and the meeting closed with a good-night circle.

The next training class will be held at 7:30 next Wednesday night at the Y. M. C. A.

Choir, Director And Soloist are Feted at Reception

Dr. Carl J. Waterman, members of the Lawrence College A Cappella choir and Ernest Wolff, the German baritone who was the guest artist in their concert last night at the Memorial chapel, were honored at a reception given at Russell Sage hall after the concert by the Lawrence college chapters of Phi Epsilon and Sigma Alpha Iota, musical sororities. Miss Ruby Voeks, Bailey's Harbor, Wis., represented Sigma Alpha Iota, and Miss Catherine McHugh, DePere, Wis. Phi Epsilon, in the making of arrangements for the affair.

Excellent Performance by Choir Pleases Audience

Ernest Wolff, Soloist, Pleases With His Presentations

BY GEORGE E. HOFFMAN THE Lawrence college choir, conducted by Dr. Carl J. Waterman, and Ernest Wolff, last night gave an excellent performance at Memorial chapel. This was the third concert of the current Artists' series, which brings Myra Hess to the city Tuesday, March 3, for the final appearance of the season.

Opening with a group of religious numbers, the choir again demonstrated its excellence in what is still regarded conventionally as the true field of a cappella singing. Whether it is true or not, it was historically the first field, and if a time comes when a cappella choirs no longer feel bound to specialize in their field, the Lawrence choir should be mentioned as one of the first to break away from a tradition which in this age handicaps the art of a cappella singing.

The choir however carried generous applause with its religious numbers last night. The most difficult work, Bach's "Be Not Afraid," gave the group real climax, and showed the choir in novel effects heretofore unseen. "The Day of Judgment" by Arkhangelsky offered equal reasons for the choir to hold up its head.

Novel Presentation Mr. Wolff's singing of song groups by Handel, Schubert and Brahms was novel, to say the least. He is probably almost unique on the concert stage today in that he accompanies himself, so that his singing has the intimate quality of a friend singing down at the piano to play and sing before a small and not too critical group.

And despite the intimacy and informality which Wolff's manner establishes between him and his audience, he should be chided for certain mannerisms which detract from his good voice and excellent repertoire. No one can doubt that Wolff is a musician and a good singer, but he should not sing constantly with his eyes closed, leaving his audience to create the mood which his own sympathetic expressions could convey. Music, especially singing, is no more an abstractly "pure" art than dramatic speech or even reading of poetry. Interpretation by the artist always has been part of the enjoyment, and probably always will be.

Flexible Voice Wolff has a voice flexible and expressive, and his singing of certain songs rarely heard in the concert hall was an experience in itself. It was good to hear Schubert's "Hark, Hark the Lark" with Shakespeare's words in their German translation, to realize that the song can mean just as much, is just as graceful in sound and meaning, to a German audience as to an American. The Brahms numbers, with a somber sparkle and dignity, applause, as did his final Strauss gathered Mr. Wolff considerable numbers.

As good as the Lawrence choir is, it reaches heights when it tries negro spirituals and folk-music. This is by no means to detract from their fine work in the religious numbers, which they do with feeling and with care. But such numbers as "Little David, Play on Yo' Harp," and the Pannace Indian song lie closer to the hearts and emotions of these young people. Naturally these emotions are vicarious, for there are no Pawnee in the choir, but they undertake such music with a dash and fire that make them smashingly successful.

Splendid Number There is one number which the Lawrence choir sings, however, which still raises the hair on the head of anyone whose emotional capabilities are not frozen to death. That is Noble Cain's "Music of Life," which seems to have become a sort of fixture on their programs, partly by the wish of the choir, partly by consent of Dr. Waterman, and partly by the urging of President Barrows. It is an utterly splendid thing, and the choir does it full justice. It is youthful and idealistic, the spirit of the words, the choir under Dean Waterman has caught the proper interpretive note, "and anyone who can hear them sing it without getting rapid heartbeat and spots before the eyes is dead but doesn't know it."

That one number, however, is only a fitting climax to the splendid work the choir does throughout an evening of their music. Last night's concert was a tribute to their musical taste and ability, and another leaf in the many laurels on Dean Waterman's brows.

Mary Astor Is Married To Salesman in Elopement

YUMA, ARIZ. (AP) — Actress Mary Astor, central figure in the widely publicized "diary case," was married here early today to Manuel Del Campo, Mexico City insurance salesman, after a secret plane elopement from Hollywood. The red-haired actress, once widowed and once divorced, identified herself to a county license clerk as Lucille L. Thorpe, 30. Del Campo said he was 25. Superior Judge Henry C. Kelly performed the wedding ceremony at his home at 4:30 a. m. (M.S.T.)

The couple departed by automobile for Calexico, Calif., where Del Campo previously had arranged to board a Pan-American transport for Mexico City. There a few hours later the thrice-wedded actress kissed her new husband goodbye and the handsome insurance salesman who had aspired briefly to an acting career, left alone. His father died at the Mexican capital of pneumonia yesterday.

Returns to Hollywood

The bride said she will return to Hollywood for a film engagement. Miss Astor, born Lucille Langhanke at Quincy, Ill., May 3, 1906, wore dark glasses and maintained determined silence on her brief marital dash through this south-west. "Greta Green," the slender film star last year waged a bitter court battle with her divorced husband, Dr. Franklyn Thorpe over custody of their 5-year-old daughter, Marylyn. During the trial, attorneys for Dr. Thorpe said they were prepared to introduce a sensational frank diary of Miss Astor. They said it confided of her association with prominent men, including George Kaufman, the playwright. The diary's contents were not introduced in evidence when the case ended in compromise and the court impounded it.

Her first husband, a movie director, was killed in an airplane accident.

Dr. Thorpe Surprised

Dr. Thorpe expressed surprise over the elopement. In Los Angeles, he said he had talked last night by telephone with Miss Astor who mentioned Del Campo's flight but said nothing of accompanying him.

She had been Del Campo's companion at night clubs and on the golf course.

The maid at Miss Astor's Toluca lake home, where Marylyn was sleeping, insisted Miss Astor had gone to the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Otto Langhanke.

How to Make Better Cough Remedy Than You Can Buy

A Big Saving, and It's So Easy! No Cooking!

Cough medicines usually contain a large quantity of sugar syrup—a good ingredient, but one which you can easily make at home. Take 2 cups of granulated sugar and 1 cup of water, and stir a few moments until dissolved. No cooking! No trouble at all.

Then get from your druggist 2½ ounces of Pinex, pour it into a pint bottle, and add your syrup. This gives you a full pint of truly wonderful, medicine for coughs due to colds. It is far better than anything you could buy ready-made, and you get four times as much for your money. It lasts a long time, never spoils, and children love it.

This is positively the most effective, quick-acting cough remedy that money could buy. Instantly, you feel it penetrating the air passages. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the inflamed membranes and makes breathing easy. You've never seen its equal for prompt and pleasing results.

Pinex is a concentrated compound of Norway Pine, the most reliable soothing agent for throat and bronchial membranes. Money refunded if it doesn't please you in every way.

Mary Todd Lincoln Victim Of Many Lies, Speaker Tells Tuesday Study Club Group

ONE of the most lied about women of all time was Mary Todd Lincoln, Honore Willis Morrow discovered when she hunted for material for her novel about the life of Abraham Lincoln's wife, Mrs. R. L. Peterson told the Tuesday Study club yesterday afternoon as she discussed Mrs. Morrow's book, "Mary Todd Lincoln." The meeting was held at the home of Miss Helen Schmidt, 302 E. Washington street.

When the book was first assigned to her by a club in Marshfield, Mrs. Peterson admitted that she took it up with little enthusiasm, for she, too, had based her opinion of Mrs. Lincoln on the stories which had grown around her—that she was vulgar, a shrew and a curse to her husband. But Mrs. Morrow's sympathetic picture of Mary Todd Lincoln, the result of extensive delving into the records of her life, changed that.

Not a vulgar shrew
Far from being a vulgar shrew, Mrs. Lincoln was well-educated, proud, handsome and vivacious, and a forceful stimulus to her husband's intellectual life. Mrs. Peterson said, as she told her listeners the story of Mrs. Lincoln as written by Honore Willis Morrow.

Her childhood was spent in Lexington, Ky., where she received the excellent education of a child of well-to-do parents. When her father married a second time, she left Kentucky to make her home with her sister in Springfield, Ill., where she quickly became the belle of the town. She had a gift, Mrs. Morrow says for men of the mental type, and soon both Stephen Douglas and Abraham Lincoln were her suitors. In spite of the fact that he was ungainly and careless in keeping his engagements with her, it was with Lincoln that she fell in love.

It was her constant prodding that finally brought him to the White House but once she was there, she became the victim of malicious gossip. There were rumors that she harbored spies for the rebel army and once she was charged with falsification of a bill for the entertaining of Prince Napoleon. Her husband, Mrs. Morrow said, was sick with sympathy for her. Through all this time, however, Sumner's friendship for her never wavered. He had come to know her and admire her when he discovered, shortly after her arrival in Washington, that she spoke French fluently. They often conversed in that language and exchanged books.

Brought Up Pension
It was he who eventually brought the matter of her pension before congress after Lincoln's death. Although he succeeded, after much strife, in obtaining the pension for her, the viciousness of the senate

Plan Will Assist Girl Scouts to Save For Camp Expenses

A plan whereby Appleton Girl Scouts are aided in saving money for their expenses at Camp Onaway, Waupaca, next summer has been inaugurated by the local Scout council. Saving booklets are being distributed to the girls who can purchase stamps of various denominations and paste them in the booklets as they have saved small amounts out of their allowances.

The Scouts may purchase the stamps from their troop leaders at any troop meeting. The stamps may be redeemed at face value when camp time arrives. Refund on unused stamp deposits will be made after Sept. 15 on application by parents or guardians. In order to take advantage of the Girl Scout saving plan, Scouts must have the consent of parents or guardians.

Isabella the Catholic (1451-1504)

Isabella the Catholic (1451-1504) was queen of Castile and Leon. She was known for her clear intellect, resolute energy and unselfish patriotism. And her character exerted a great moral influence over the Castilian court which had been pretty bad until she came. She was very pious and had strong religious convictions.

But her greatest claim to fame is that she listened to Columbus plans and financed his adventurous voyages, offering to pawn her jewels if the treasury funds fell short. Many overprints on current issues have also been coming out of Spain.

The WORLD OF STAMPS

BY QUINTON JAMES
Velasquez, the great Spanish painter, and Isabella, the queen who backed Columbus on his voyage of discovery, are pictured in two new stamps from the government presses at Madrid.

The portrait of the artist and his autograph (Diego de Silva Velasquez) decorate a 30-centavo stamp printed in blue. The queen's head appears on a 30-c red stamp.

Born in Seville, Velasquez (1599-1660) became attached to the court of Philip IV. He painted religious, historical and court subjects and is considered the head of the Spanish school of painting. Today his pictures are treasured in famous galleries of Europe and the United States. He helped lay the foundations of modern painting.

George V jubilee design. He thought the color—normally ultramarine—seemed to be an off-shade, so he bought the entire sheet and others of the same hue for about $25.

Thereupon, so the story goes, he sold the lot to a syndicate for $25 apiece, making a net profit of about $7,500. Since then the price of this variety has risen considerably. In the recent Bond street sale it was quoted at $250.

The only U. S. letter sheet listed in the catalog until this year was the 2-cent Grant issue of 1856. Now another has been recognized and added.

It was printed in 1861 and bears the 3-cent Washington head impression of the type then used on envelopes. The stamps' color is pink and the sheet is of blue paper in both letter and note paper size. First issued in August, 1861, this letter sheet was withdrawn in April, 1864.

Strangers Are Welcome At Bridge Tournaments

(Copyright, 1937: Ely Culbertson)
"Dear Mr. Culbertson:
"I have no objection to your reprinting this letter, provided that you delete my name and address. I don't want to run into a lot of kidding from my pals. My regular partner and I think we play pretty good contract, but since neither of us ever has played away from home, which happens to be in a town of about 80,000, we can't be certain that we measure up to expert specifications."

"We would like to enter one of the major tournaments in the pair match, feeling that no matter how we fared we would have a lot of fun and gain valuable experience. Naturally, we don't want to be disgraced and come back home with our tails between our legs."

"What I should like to ask, therefore, is just this: Are strangers, who may not be up to the highest caliber of play, well received at these tournaments, and can they be assured that the other contestants will not look on them as from Olympian heights?"

"Timidly yours,
"M. A. Jr."

I respect a confidence and am holding out the actual source of the above query, but the question and answer deserve widespread dissemination.

Strangers are most decidedly welcome at all tournaments, the only exception being one or two affairs to which entrance is gained in one case by invitation, and in the other by virtue of having won a sectional qualifying tournament (the latter is the Grand National of the United States Bridge association, held in New York, this year's date being the later part of April). With these exceptions, unknown teams are welcome, and enthusiastically so. I trust that this answer will result in an influx of many players at all tournaments.

The bidding:

West Pass
North Pass

This hand came up in the pair match of the Great Lakes tournament, recently held in Chicago. The New York expert who held the South hand thought, when he saw the dummy, and even after he had been defeated one trick, that he would get a high score on the board. His disappointment was keen when he found that a great many other players had landed in precisely the same spot. I can understand his disappointment and his surprise, for East-West could have made a game easily in spades or hearts. That they settled for a measly 100 points was certainly not to their credit. The West players, in my opinion, were 95 per cent responsible for the poor result.

With any one but a bridge moron overcalling spades with two clubs, West should not be so quick to trigger as to double. In a game in which total points are the deciding factor, I would criticize East for leaving in the double, but at match points I do not believe he should be censured. It is true that his hand is not well suited to the defense against two clubs, but neither can he assume that a game for his side is in the offing. For all he knows, two clubs, even if defeated only one trick, might be the best possible result.

The exigencies of match point play must modify the optional features of doubles, and for that reason the doubler must take precautions. In this case, a two heart bid by West would have been immeasurably superior to a premature penalty double.

My Neighbor Says—

So-called clear soup is often cloudy because every trace of fat has not been removed from the stock. Allow the stock to become cold and solid, then remove all the grease.

After a room has been painted, an excellent way to remove the smell of the paint is to place a pail of water to which has been added a few slices of raw onion in the room and leave it there over night. Keep the doors and windows closed and the smell will be entirely gone by morning.

When making marmalade or jam, cut rounds of tissue paper the size of the jars. Soak each separately in vinegar and lay close over the top of the preserve. This will prevent it becoming mouldy.

When hanging pictures remember that the center of the picture should be on the level with the eyes. If you are unusually tall this rule does not hold good.

YOUTH SNEAKS UP
Enid, Okla.—(P)—Youth is creeping up on 60-year-old R. L. Downing, who has discarded his glasses and now is cutting his third set of teeth.

Downing formerly could not read the streamer line on a newspaper without his glasses. One day he found he could read a little better, and within a year he laid aside his glasses entirely.

The improvement in his eye-sight, Downing admitted, was not nearly so much a surprise as the discovery his third set of teeth was coming through.

Weapons of War

IX—BOMBS AND AIRPLANES
Certain inventors have spent a great deal of time working on bombs. They have wanted to find ways to make them more deadly.

Bombs or "hand grenades" were widely used during the World war.

They were thrown from trench to trench, and when one landed in the midst of a mass of soldiers it did a great deal of damage.

Bombers in test flight.

Bombs may be hollow balls filled with explosive and small pieces of iron, or they can be tubes filled in the same way. The important thing is for them to explode in the right place—where, of course, is supposed to be in the ranks of the enemy.

Some grenades hurled in the World war were fitted with strings. The string was pulled just as the soldier was ready to throw it. Pulling the string set off a fuse, and the explosion took place a few seconds later. Soldiers were in a hurry to get rid of this kind of bomb, lest it should explode in their hands.

Another type of grenade had a hook in it with a cord tied on. The other end of the cord was tied to a strap around the soldier's wrist. When the bomb was thrown it went through the air the length of the cord before the hook was pulled.

ed out. The pulling of the hook set off the fuse, and the bomb went on with its journey.

Often the trenches were far apart, but sometimes they were close enough for bombs to be tossed back and forth. Now and then a soldier was able to pick up a bomb thrown by the enemy and hurl it back before it exploded. Still another type of grenade had a cap to make it explode when it struck a solid object.

In some ways airplanes are a blessing to mankind, but they have been used for the fearful work of war. The nations of Europe know that flying machines have great power to destroy, and are building more and more of them. France, Russia, Germany, Italy and Great Britain are said to possess from 3,000 to 7,000 military airplanes apiece, and are racing to add to the number.

A pitiful picture of the warfare in Spain showed two little Spanish girls, aged about 9 and 11, lying dead in a street of Madrid. They were victims of a bomb dropped on the city from an airplane.

Modern war does not spare women or children or aged men. They may be in their homes, with no wish to fight against anyone, when down comes a bomb loaded with hundreds of pounds of explosive. This fact adds to the reasons why almost all people living today want a peaceful world to live in.

Let Child Choose Menu To End Fussing at Meals

BY ANGELO PATRI

"O, dear, cabbage salad again. I hate cabbage."
"You might reserve that until after dinner," said mother, in hurt tones. "I can eat cabbage salad every night in the week and like it," said Brother, suiting the action to the word.

"Well, I can't," said Beulah, petulantly. "There are plenty of other salads to be had. Once in a while is one thing, but every day—"

"This is the first time in ten days you have had cabbage salad," said mother. "I know because I make out the menus. You don't even get the same dish twice in the same week."

"Why not allow Beulah to choose the menus for a while?" said father. "I think that people who make criticisms and suggestions ought to be willing to shoulder a little of the work and responsibility. Let her choose the menu for tomorrow night."

"All right, I will. And we won't have cabbage salad either!"
"But you will have to help cook and serve the meal you choose," said mother. "I'll do the marketing for you, and help some, but you must do your own choosing and most of the cooking."

"It's Friday night, so that will be all right with me," said Beulah confidently.

"Can I go over to Aunt Harriet's for dinner tomorrow night?" asked Brother with exaggerated anxiety.

"No, you stay right here and eat what you get like the rest of us," said father laughing. "And Thursday will be your turn. That will give your mother a break. You can both learn to cook. It will do you good to learn. I had to when I was your age."

"What did you have for your first dinner, father? Give me a hint," said the boy. "I'm for scrambled eggs and frankfurters and cabbage salad and ice cream."

"Terrible," exclaimed Sister with a shudder. "I have to eat, too, remember. Mother never gives us frankfurters for a home meal and you know it."

You will have to select the dishes from the recipes on file in the cabinet," said mother. "Your father and I have to eat as well as you. I'll help at the start, but you will both have to learn to choose your menus and cook and serve them."

Mr. Patri will give personal attention to inquiries from parents and school teachers on the care and development of children. Write him care of this paper, enclosing a three-cent stamped, addressed envelope for reply.

Weather Is Ruinous to Complexion

BY ELSIE PIERCE

TEMPERAMENTAL weather plays havoc with health as well as Beauty. We had unusually warm spells in most parts of the country this winter. The effect on Beauty of unseasonal weather or weather changes is marked. With proper protective care the skin soon builds its own resistance against chill winds. Those living in northern climes have to keep their skins lubricated and have to protect the skin with a foundation preparation and with powder (remember that powder has protective as well as beautifying powers). Those living in southern climes need virtually the same care—lubrication and protection. Sun and wind both tend to extract natural oil from the skin leaving it dry, coarsened and prone to chapping and wrinkles.

Far more devastating than either sun or wind is temperamental weather. The sudden adjustment the skin has to make from a cold, windy day to a mild, warm day is hard on the complexion. It is similar in effect to the sudden adjustment from cold outdoors to overheated interiors.

Balanced Treatment
If you know your skin's needs and can keep your treatment in balance, just as you keep your diet in balance and make changes depending upon the way you feel, the season of the year and so on—then you can ward off the ravages of weather changes.

For the average skin the ideal treatment consists of cleansing with cleansing cream, patting briskly with skin tonic kept on ice, upward and outward over face and neck. Then the use of a foundation cream or lotion and application of rouge plus a generous dusting with powder. On cold or windy days, avoid washing skin with soap and water either immediately before or immediately after going outdoors. Use cleansing cream instead.

If the skin is chapped or blotchy use a soothing, lubricating cream. If the skin is oily, use a astringent lotion before your make-up to form a barrier between your skin and the little dust particles blown about by the wind, so eager to settle as blackheads.

If you are at all in doubt as to what treatment your skin ordinarily needs send a self-addressed, stamped (3-cent) envelope for my bulletin "How to Tell Your Skin and What to Do About It." Address Miss Pierce in care of the Appleton Post-Crescent.

GOOD TASTE TODAY

READERS WHO ARE CONFUSED ABOUT PARTY OBLIGATIONS

Dear Mrs. Post: Several older hostesses here have recently given parties for our friend, who is marrying soon. All this younger group has been to these parties. Now comes the question of obligations and we've had quite an argument among ourselves as to whether we should be expected to invite these older women to any parties we might give sometime. I personally don't believe it would be suitable to invite several older women alone to a party otherwise composed of young people. But we would like to have your opinion?

Answer: In every society which can be defined as really distinguished, older people and younger people are invited on many occasions together. Even if this is not the usual custom in your community. I think it would be setting an excellent precedent to have an afternoon tea and invite not only these few hostesses but your own mothers and other people as well as those of your own age. This subject is really a very far-reaching one, and the segregation of society into groups assorted according to age is perhaps the cause of American society's loss of prestige as compared with that of European countries where ages are not segregated.

Dear Mrs. Post: Will you explain just how far a hostess is supposed to consult a friend for whom she is giving a party? To clarify my question, if a hostess is expected to ask her for a list of the people she wants there, might the length of such a list not prove embarrassing to the hostess, or perhaps even contain names of people she would rather not invite to her house?

Answer: There are times when,

Believes Marriage Would Be Chance for Happiness

BY DOROTHY DIX

Deaf Miss Dix—I am a widow, 34 years old, financially independent, with a good job and no children. I am settled in my ways, good-natured and have the home complex, and very fond of children. An old friend of school days, a widower of 38, has asked me to marry him. He has a nice home and a good business in a small town, and two children, 7 and 6 years old. We are just as romantically in love with each other as if we were boy and girl, but if we marry do you think there will be any chance of happiness for us, or would his children forever stand in our way? I feel that I could very easily fit into their lives, but my friends tell me that I would be making the mistake of my life to give up a good job to be a stepmother. What do you say? HELEN.

supporting as you are, but it is a better thing for her to have a tender and loving husband to stand between her and the world, with a home of her own and a man and children to love and care and make comfortable, instead of just working for herself.

There isn't much fun for a woman in cooking dinner just for herself alone, or sitting up of an evening in even the most artistic room with nobody to talk to. A woman has to have somebody to "do," for, somebody to fuss over, somebody to whom she is necessary, and that is why even women who haven't very satisfactory husbands are happy.

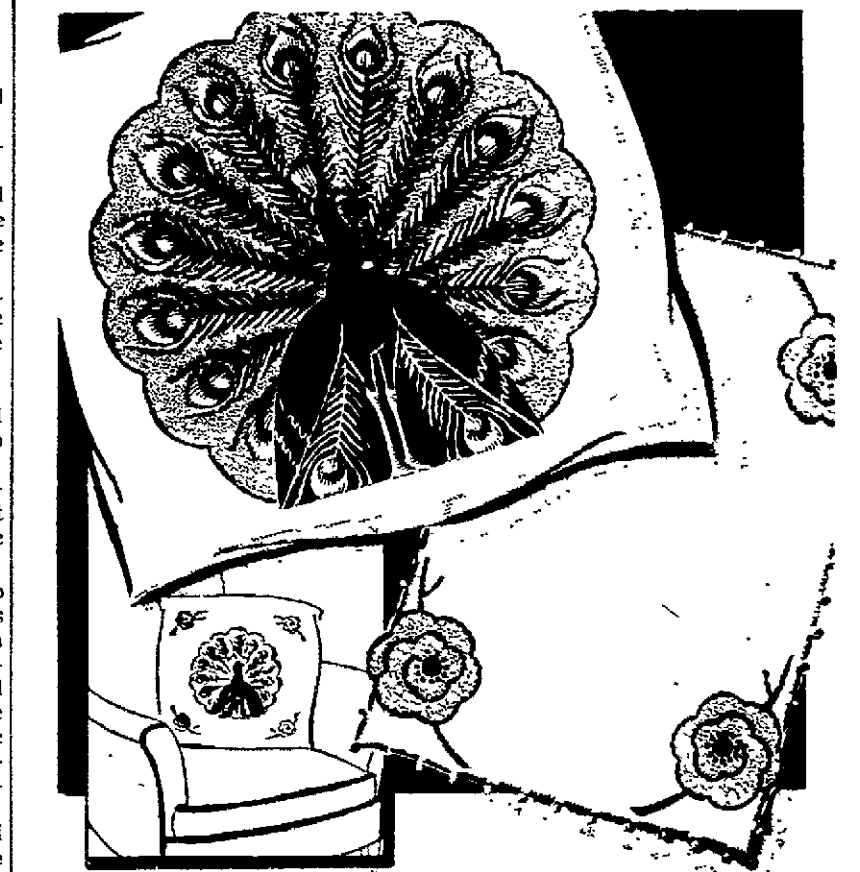

Let's say, an older hostess wanting to give a party for a young person and not knowing younger people herself, must ask the guest of honor for a list of her young friends. But under most circumstances a hostess giving a party for some one gives it entirely by herself and the guest of honor has nothing whatever to do with the arrangements.

Dear Mrs. Post: A young man, who is a friend of my husband and me, often comes to us for advice. He has now asked whether I don't think it unkind for a young woman, whom he takes out occasionally, to smoke and sometimes even ask for a cocktail before dinner, when she knows he neither smokes nor drinks. Personally, I think it is inconsiderate of her, but I don't know what is the accepted social behavior today and want to be fair in giving an opinion.

Answer: Unless your friend has a very delicate throat or threatened with something really serious, she would quite properly feel at liberty to smoke her own cigarettes, which of course every smoker carries. Whether she should ask him to order a cocktail for her depends fundamentally upon his point of view. That is, if his objection to alcohol is one of principle, then she ought not to ask for one. Or else she must not go out with him at all. If, on the other hand, he merely does not care for cocktails, he has as host ought to provide her with what he knows she likes just as he should choose the dishes she likes instead of those he himself prefers.

Adorn a pair of pillows, or a scarf, for the pattern includes two peacocks. The small motifs are attractive, too, for these. Pattern 1417 contains a transfer pattern of two motifs 9 1/2 x 10 inches, two and two reverse motifs 2 1/2 x 3 1/2 inches; directions for doing applique; suggestions for uses of the motifs; material requirements; illustrations of all stitches used.

Send 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred) for this pattern to the Appleton Post-Crescent, Needlecraft Dept., 82 Eighth Avenue, New York, N. Y. Write plainly: pattern number, your name and address.

pier married than they would be single.

I grant you that the problem of being a stepmother is one to make even the boldest stop and think, and in a case where the children are in the early teens, when all youngsters are uppity and hard to manage, I should think that none but the foolhardy would tackle the undertaking. But your case is different. Here the children are young enough to be pliable, and helpless enough to want a mother to love them and pet them and guide them, and it will be easy for you to win their little hearts and take a real mother's place in their lives.

We hear a lot about cruel stepmothers, and no doubt there are women who are harsh and mean and tyrannical and who are so jealous of their husband's love for his children that they try to separate them, but such women are rare. Where there is one mean stepmother there are thousands of good stepmothers, noble and unselfish women who are real mothers to motherless little children, who work and sacrifice for them and whose stepchildren rise up and call them blessed.

As for these two children coming between you and your husband and making trouble, that is in your hands. If you are jealous of them and neglectful of them, and if you make their little lives unhappy, you will alienate your husband from you if he has any decency in him. But if you are good and kind to the children and are a real mother to them, you will draw him closer to you by every tie of appreciation and gratitude and admiration. The women who adopt children love them as their own. I have never been able to see why a stepmother should not be able to feel the same way about her stepchildren.

School Glee Club To Have Annual Contest Feb. 28

Competition Will Be Held In Marion High Auditorium

Marion — The high school glee club will hold its annual contest Sunday afternoon, Feb. 28, in the high school auditorium. There will be soprano, baritone, alto and bass solos, also several duets. The girls' trio will sing. The girls' glee club will sing at the Washington program next Monday afternoon at school, and in the evening at the Americanism program in the village hall.

The O. O. O. Bridge club met at the home of Mrs. P. C. Rogers, Tuesday afternoon. High scores were held by Mrs. L. M. Devaud and second high by Mrs. E. S. Rogers. Mrs. E. R. Garrett and Mrs. C. H. Mees were guests of the club. Mrs. E. S. Byers will be hostess to the club in two weeks.

The Woman's club met at the village hall Monday evening. The usual business was dispensed with. Plans are being made to get an outside speaker for Founders day, the fifteenth anniversary of the Marion Woman's club.

The Boy Scouts provided the entertainment for the program in observance of Boy Scout week. They gave the flag salute, the scout oath and the scout law. Jim Rogers demonstrated the use of the alphabet in sending messages with flags. The message he sent and which was interpreted was "Good luck to the Woman's Club."

Dean Arndt talked to the boys with the sign language and they in turn interpreted it.

The scouts also gave demonstrations in first aid work, such as bandaging a broken arm and broken ribs, and stopping bleeding by use of a tourniquet. They also gave some demonstrations in pyramid building and closed their program with some scout songs. Mrs. Forrest Schaefer entertained the club with two vocal solos, "Sylvia" and "Sweet Mystery of Life." The next meeting will be March 1, and program will be on "Indian Welfare."

County Safety Council Meets

Plans for Membership Drive are Discussed at Waupaca Gathering

Waupaca—Archibald Gmeiner presided at the regular meeting of the Waupaca County Safety Council Wednesday evening at the courthouse, in the absence of the chairman, Walter A. Olen, Clintonville, who is in the east. There were members present from nearly all parts of the county.

Stressing the membership drive being launched by the council as part of its intensive program for the coming year, Mr. Gmeiner compared the purpose of the council with that of the Conservation League, who with their active interest in protecting birds and small game, finance their activities with membership dues, and said that the protection of persons, especially small children, was so much more worthy a cause that it should be easy to enlist the support of the public, which is gradually waking up to the fact that something must be done.

The next meeting of the council will be held in Iola, home of the membership chairman, E. I. Anderson, Feb. 17. The April meeting will be in Clintonville, and this meeting has been set aside as a day to honor the School Boy Patrol. Wishing to show its appreciation of the service being rendered by these school boys in assisting small children across dangerous crossings, in rain as well as sub-zero weather, with much unpleasantness connected with it, and no glory, the council plans to invite the boys to a luncheon, together with the school superintendent and chief of police of their city, and hope to procure some city traffic officer to talk to them.

The Young Woman's Bible class of the Methodist church met at the home of Mrs. Paul Thatcher Tuesday evening; assisting hostesses were Mesdames H. N. Olson, S. Trull, Jack Viney and Miss Joe Mix. Following the business meeting, the thirty-six members present enjoyed games, and a weiner and marshmallow roast around the fireplace.

Waupaca was well represented at the finals of the Golden Gloves tourney held in Wisconsin Rapids Tuesday evening. Among those present were Dr. A. M. Christofferson, L. J. Steiger, O. F. Peterson, Kenneth Smith, Roy Rasmuss, Barney Pomer, Oscar Burns, C. L. Booth, William Kneeland, Fred Dahm and Albert Anderson.

Mrs. A. M. Christofferson left Wednesday morning for St. Joseph's hospital, Marshfield, where she will receive treatments for rheumatism.

Members of the American Legion auxiliary, the Orville Ballard post and the Women's Relief corps, have been invited to attend with colors, the morning service of the First Baptist Church, of which the Rev. G. N. Doody is pastor.

Plans are being made by the members of the American Legion to entertain their wives at a patriotic party Monday evening at Crystal Inn.

Pegler Has More to Say On the Art of 'Splashing'

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York—There are two distinct varieties of splash-man in the ennobling profession of pugilism, and I came back to make this explanation. It is assumed that many earnest, conscientious round-heels or popovers are tankers.

The tanker is a gladiator who does business with the manager of his opponent and goes off the springboard for a consideration. The round-heel is one who sincerely strives to win but can't win for losing. He has a weakness, usually in his chin, which becomes known to the profession, and some round-heels have made fortunes out of failure, because the customers, for all that may be said about the manly science of boxing, have a distinct preference for carnage, spectacular falls and conclusive endings. The knockout in pugilism is equivalent to the home run in baseball, and Babe Ruth got as much as $80,000 a year for hitting home runs, whereas the highest salary ever paid a pitcher, whose job is to prevent home runs was only $30,000.

The splash who went to Baton Rouge, La., to go into the water for Huey Long's boy, Jack Torrance, appears to be a tanker, but hardly a credit to a craft which contributes so much to the prestige of Primo Carnera. He refused to go through with his performance, and if there is anything beautiful in the art of the tankman it is his touching devotion to duty and his resolute ability to hold still when he missed pounds on the canvas in the corner and says "now!"

to the chin or body, leaving his own head exposed and hold the pose until his opponent strikes him savagely on the ear and renders him insensible, as they say.

It is sometimes said that a tanker went into the water from the stunning force of a terrific jab on the wrist or elbow, but that is just loose talk in most cases. An ethical tanker who knows his business and loves his calling will wait for a punch, catch it, roll with it and swoon with convincing realism.

Sometimes he will shut his eyes and lie there until they drag him to his corner, but the script varies, and he may be allowed to come staggering up just at the count of three and wobble around the ring with his eyes crossed, begging the referee to let him go on.

Tankers, However, Have Been Known to Er...

Tankers, being human, have been known to err, of course, and there was a dreadful mishap in Los Angeles a couple of years ago when a referee with no sense of humor warned an artist that he would be indicted and sent to prison if he failed to put forth his best efforts. He had already received his instructions and his inducements, and was tossing on the antlers of a rather sharp-horned dilemma, because his manager's opponent was a very ill-tempered man who might meet his somewhere and blow him through with a deadly weapon if he betrayed his trust.

So, in the first round, he swung viciously, taking care to miss, and during the intermission received a quiet call from the referee, who solemnly reminded him of indictments and jail. In the second round, therefore, the distracted tanker let one fly and knocked his opponent flat and then, without a pause hoped over the ropes, down the aisle into a taxi and away, still attired in his gladiator's costume.

So They Found a Way To Emphasize Point

Primo's board of directors used both tankers and round-heels on their picturesque tour of the country, but some of the pop-overs were not quite safe for Carnera and needed moral suasion in the dressing room. In some cases this was advanced through a tactful glimpse of a pistol in a shoulder holster or pants pocket, but one subject said the roscoe was placed against his nude ribs for emphasis.

The English produced the most gifted high-board heavyweight divers of all in Bombardier Wells and Joe Becket, both British cham-

Lincoln Program Held At Bear Creek School

Bear Creek—The high school had a short program Friday in honor of Abraham Lincoln's birthday. Principal K. E. Edge gave the introductory speech. to an inferior gladiator and, generally does so with a subtle, yet robust realism which sends the customers and maybe even the victor away with the impression that they have been present at a mighty contest and a stirring victory.

Former Waupaca Family Leaving for Sumatra, Dutch East Indies, Today

Waupaca — Rush D. Teuton of Philadelphia, formerly employed by the Myron Godfrey Automobile Co., Waupaca, was to leave Thursday for Medan, Sumatra, Dutch East Indies, where he is to superintend the construction of a warehouse, and the installation of the most modern equipment possible in a tobacco warehouse. Mr. Teuton, brother of Mrs. Sim Shambau of this city, is now technical director of the Bayuk Cigar Co., and because of an invention of his for the use of curing tobacco, his company allowed him time from his work with an unlimited expense account, to perfect the unit. That invention is now to be installed in the Sumatra warehouse. All other machinery to be used has been made especially for the job, by the Fairbanks Morse Co. of Beloit, and is being shipped at once.

When Mr. Teuton, with his wife and 5-year-old son, Don, reach Vancouver, Saturday, they will sail on the Empress of Canada, for Honolulu and Japan, with two stops in China—Shanghai and Hong Kong. At Hong Kong they will have to board a Dutch boat which will take them to Singapore.

It is said that Sumatra is the wildest spot left on earth, with cannibal tribes still to be found there. Just this winter the Harvard Institute sent an expedition into the field to study the ape in its primitive surroundings. Here it will be necessary to have guards in the tobacco fields, to protect the plants from the trampling of lions and tigers.

Since Sumatra is exactly one-half way around the world, Mr. Teuton has decided to return the other way home, and has learned that an around the world ticket is $200 less than a round trip ticket from Philadelphia. It takes a letter 35 days to reach Sumatra by regular mail, but 15 days is all that is necessary if letters are sent air mail, routed by Amsterdam.

Mr. Teuton had expected to spend the past Sunday in Waupaca, coming here from Edgerton where he visited at the home of his mother and brother, Fred, but because of icy roads he was unable to make the trip. He wrote his sister that his young son had promised to bring a monkey to each of his kindergarten classmates upon their return in six months.

Here's Simple Way to Ease a Cold

Two Quick-Acting, Quick-Dissolving Bayer Aspirin Tablets with a Glass of Water

The modern way to ease a cold is this: Two Bayer Aspirin tablets the moment you feel a cold coming on. Then repeat, if necessary, according to instructions in the box.

At the same time, if you have a sore throat, crush and dissolve three BAYER tablets in one-third glass of water. And gargle with this mixture twice.

The Bayer Aspirin you take internally will act to combat fever and the pains which usually accompany colds. The gargle will act as a medicinal gargle to provide almost instant relief from rawness and pain. It is really marvelous; for it acts like a local anesthetic on the irritated membrane of your throat.

Stage Finals of Gloves Tourney Tomorrow at Bay

Regular Winners to Leave Sunday for Chicago Tournament

GREEN BAY—A return to the Golden Gloves wars for the last time this season locally, will send 32 amateur boxers into the Columbus Community club ring Friday evening, the occasion being the finals of the fifth annual Press-Gazette's northeastern Wisconsin-Michigan tournament.

All reserved seat tickets have been sold. The tournament management indicated today that many more seats could have been sold, had they been available, and checks still were pouring into the box office by mail today. They were being returned with regrets.

All fighters who will appear in the final program will weigh in at the Columbus club at 3 o'clock Friday afternoon. Prizes to both champions and runners-up in each class and all weight divisions will be awarded after each bout Friday night, which means that each contestant will receive a glove of some sort, all of them handsome.

The eight regular champions, representing the section in the Chicago Tribune Tournament of Champions, which starts Monday, will leave here on the Chicago and North Western railway at 10:15 Sunday morning, arriving at Chicago at 4 o'clock that afternoon. The team headquarters will be at the Palmer House, and the fighters will be entertained royally as guests of the Press-Gazette.

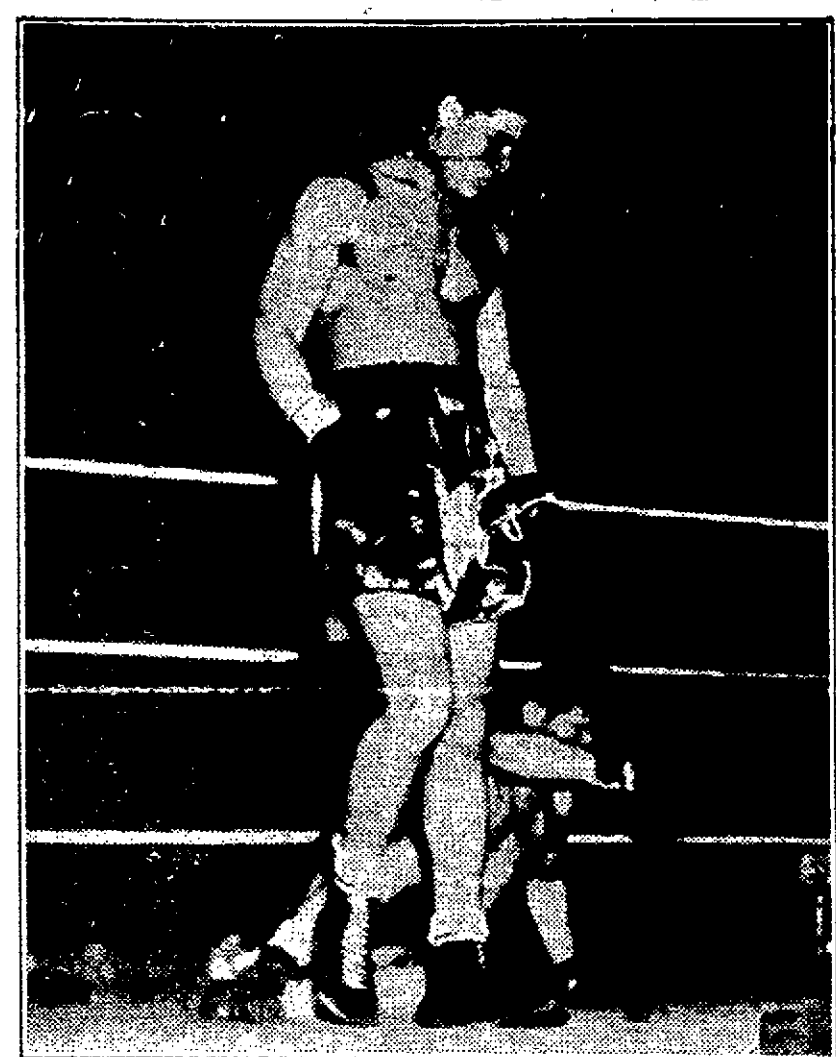

Who will win the championships in the regular and novice divisions is of course a speculative matter, and a record final night crowd will jam into the auditorium Friday night to find out. Eight outstanding battles are booked for the regular division, and an equal number in the novice group.

Regular champions will receive golden gloves set with diamonds; regular runners-up will be given plain golden gloves; novice champs will get silver gloves; and novice runners-up will be awarded bronze gloves.

Natie Brown Is Stopped by Louis In Fourth Frame

Brown Bomber Fails to Impress Against Washington Hebrew

BY WHITNEY MARTIN

ANSAS CITY —(AP)—Referee Walter Bates ruled it a fourth-round knockout, so that's the way Joe Louis' victory over Natie Brown was on the books today. More than a few of the 10,222 spectators at Municipal Auditorium last night thought the only thing really out was their pocket-books.

They paid $27,138 to see the Brown Bomber patch up his maimed prestige at the expense of the punch-weary Washington Hebrew, who provided a burlesque ending that must have made journeyman wrestlers green with envy.

It was Louis' first start since his unfortunate affair with young Bob Pastor, in which Louis trailed by two laps at the finish but was given the decision for trying. Visioning a championship bout with Jim Braddock in the offing, Louis had to be the bomber of old against Brown. The four-round knockout was the answer.

The bout was as dull as the expressionless eyes of Louis. For two rounds, Brown carried the fight to the bomber, but neither man landed a punch hard enough to dent a grapefruit.

Brown badly hurt

Midway in the third round Louis caught Brown coming in and flailed him with short rights and lefts. Brown's face began to assume a well-cushioned appearance. As the round ended he apparently was in a bad way, half out of the ropes and half out of his head.

The fourth was Louis' big round. He started at the gong, driving in a barrage of rights and lefts which slipped through Brown's protruding gloves to hit against various parts of his anatomy. Fifteen times the bomber bombed without answering fire. Finally the weary Natie sank to the floor in a sitting position.

Louis, his face expressing the same animation of a coal scuttie, ambled to a neutral corner. Referee Bates started counting, ceased abruptly as the apparently groggy Brown grabbed him by a leg and pulled him over.

Brown staggered to his feet and weaved an unsteady way toward the uncomprehending Louis. Before Brown could make it, Bates recovered his footing, took a short cut to Louis and hoisted his hand aloft. Bates said the timekeeper had completed the count before Brown regained his feet.

For his brief exercise last night Louis and his stockholders received $8,826.84. Brown's cut was $3,310.

NEW YORK —(AP)—Eleanor Gehrig (Mrs. Lou) is going to be another son, entitled.

"We Wrote Our Love Song Together." Her first, "I Can't Get to First Base With You," would make a good theme song for Lou's comic skit with Col. Ruppert. The dope over here is that Gehrig will take $36,000 this year or stay home.

Bill Reid, Colgate director of athletics, will run for mayor of Hamilton, N. Y., again soon. Virginia not only got one of the country's finest football coaches in Frank Murray, but as fine a poker player as the game ever knew.

"Holy cow!" is his favorite and most violent expression. Alabama's boxers take salt baths and sleep without pillows, and as Lynn C. Doyle of the Philadelphia Bulletin remarks, sleeping without pillows is great preparation for a ring career.

Jimmy Dykes, White Sox manager, is hanging out at Santa Anita these days. "A lot of my pals in Chicago wanted me to see what was holding back their horses," says Jimmy.

"Beans Reardon gave me a couple of tips, but I didn't bet. Umptires are never right."

It just seems to be a habit with England's Phil Scott. ... Even his tea room collapsed the other day. ... Ed Brandt took one look at his Pittsburgh contract and in 10 seconds had it signed and ready for delivery.

... That's how glad he was to get away from the Dodgers. ... Russ Blinco, center for the Montreal hockey Maroons, has been fitted for special shatterless glasses.

Jack Dempsey celebrated the second anniversary of his entry into the restaurant business yesterday by declaring a general raise for his employees. ... Westley young Alfred Murray, but as fine a poker player as the game ever knew.

... How many lawyers are there in this country? asks Joe Gould, Jimmy Braddock's manager. ... "And why do you suppose they're all having this fuss over the supreme court?" "Well, I'll tell you—it's because people break contracts. And that's what I'm gonna do to that Schmeling-Braddock thing—break it." ... Bob Zuppkie's still howling at the football rules committee. ... He doesn't like the recent tinkering, claiming, "There's now danger that no inference will be called unless in extreme cases." ... This falls far below another of his retorts: "If they don't stop fooling with the rules, we'll soon have a round field with rubber goal posts."

Clafin Agrees That the Dog Is Man's Best Friend

BY BERT CLAFIN

Post-Crescent Out Door Editor

It is gratifying to know that today our faithful friend, the dog, is coming in for more attention than ever. When I say faithful I mean just that. No other word will do. I don't care if he is a blue-blooded scion of a long line of ancestors among which were individuals valued at thousands of dollars, or just a plain, yellow mongrel of "57 varieties." If you've made a friend of him he is always loyal; he will fight for you; discomforts mean nothing to him if you are in the picture; he will romp and play with you on sunny days; he will starve with you on lean ones; and he will die for you without a complaint.

As an exemplification of all this, right now as I write this column "Pal," a dog of questionable parentage whose predominant characteristics point strongly toward a bull terrier on one side or the other, lies directly under my feet. Now have I the heart to move him when he turns those big, brown eyes up at me. The best dispositioned dog that ever lived is "Pal." His chief function in life, aside from mute worship of me even to the extent of refusing all food for days after I leave on a trip, is the killing of every cat that encroaches upon the domain about my home during the spring when dozens of songbirds are nesting and rearing their happy families.

Owned Many Dogs

But I have owned "good" dogs in the past. Let's see if I can recall some of them. One, a high-class pointer, "Bab," by name, cost Conductor W. O. Stone of the Northwestern railway, who is now dead, hundreds of dollars in Brooklyn, N. Y., and as much more to have him trained. Stone gave "Bab" to me. He was the only bird dog I ever owned that would point and retrieve jacksnipe without an error. The "jack" gives off little scent, you know. "Bab" died, the victim of a dehumanized poisoner, a filthy creature called a human being.

My next venture was a red Irish setter purchased in Winona, Minn., Stubbard. More so than a pointer, but kindness finally won the battle, and over "Red" I shot many a chicken and ruffed grouse in the days of plenty.

Followed a beautiful little Gordon bitch which I obtained in Independence, Iowa. Of Druid-Ruby blood and high-class in every respect, this was the kindest-hearted and intelligent hunting dog I ever owned. With her as a pup I spent weeks in the alder lowlands getting her acquainted with woodcock out of season. She worked like a Clumber I once owned and hunted over. I trained her to remain always close to me in the covers, to "drop at shot" and work slowly. What golden days I recall with this wonderful companion in the "silent places" after the cock season opened! How proud she was of the amber-colored longbills that she and I showed admiring friends upon our return home!

Has Distinct Place

There were others but space does not permit me speaking of them. A dog has a distinct place in one's family. In fact, no home is complete without one. At times his dirty feet may annoy the housekeeper; he may conscientiously annihilate a respected neighbor's bird-killing lobby; he may wake you in the still night with a bark; and he may prefer liver or veal to a dry bone. But always he's your friend, ready to brave a sleety storm or a cold, dark night at your beckon, and do it uncomplainingly. If you favor him with a choice tidbit he loves you; and he loves you if you don't. He never finds fault with you; he never questions you.

When once, as a favor to an intimate friend, I gave him "Rex," a beagle of staunch 'n's and sincere worship, and he ran away and came home unerringly for fifty miles to look into my eyes, not reproachfully, but approvingly, a million dollars would not have bought him.

He was the only bird dog I ever owned that would point and retrieve jacksnipe without an error. The "jack" gives off little scent, you know. "Bab" died, the victim of a dehumanized poisoner, a filthy creature called a human being.

My next venture was a red Irish setter purchased in Winona, Minn., Stubbard. More so than a pointer, but kindness finally won the battle, and over "Red" I shot many a chicken and ruffed grouse in the days of plenty.

Followed a beautiful little Gordon bitch which I obtained in Independence, Iowa. Of Druid-Ruby blood and high-class in every respect, this was the kindest-hearted and intelligent hunting dog I ever owned. With her as a pup I spent weeks in the alder lowlands getting her acquainted with woodcock out of season. She worked like a Clumber I once owned and hunted over. I trained her to remain always close to me in the covers, to "drop at shot" and work slowly. What golden days I recall with this wonderful companion in the "silent places" after the cock season opened! How proud she was of the amber-colored longbills that she and I showed admiring friends upon our return home!

Has Distinct Place

There were others but space does not permit me speaking of them. A dog has a distinct place in one's family. In fact, no home is complete without one. At times his dirty feet may annoy the housekeeper; he may conscientiously annihilate a respected neighbor's bird-killing lobby; he may wake you in the still night with a bark; and he may prefer liver or veal to a dry bone. But always he's your friend, ready to brave a sleety storm or a cold, dark night at your beckon, and do it uncomplainingly. If you favor him with a choice tidbit he loves you; and he loves you if you don't. He never finds fault with you; he never questions you.

When once, as a favor to an intimate friend, I gave him "Rex," a beagle of staunch 'n's and sincere worship, and he ran away and came home unerringly for fifty miles to look into my eyes, not reproachfully, but approvingly, a million dollars would not have bought him.

Clafin Agrees That the Dog Is Man's Best Friend

BY BERT CLAFIN

Post-Crescent Out Door Editor

It is gratifying to know that today our faithful friend, the dog, is coming in for more attention than ever. When I say faithful I mean just that. No other word will do. I don't care if he is a blue-blooded scion of a long line of ancestors among which were individuals valued at thousands of dollars, or just a plain, yellow mongrel of "57 varieties." If you've made a friend of him he is always loyal; he will fight for you; discomforts mean nothing to him if you are in the picture; he will romp and play with you on sunny days; he will starve with you on lean ones; and he will die for you without a complaint.

As an exemplification of all this, right now as I write this column "Pal," a dog of questionable parentage whose predominant characteristics point strongly toward a bull terrier on one side or the other, lies directly under my feet. Now have I the heart to move him when he turns those big, brown eyes up at me. The best dispositioned dog that ever lived is "Pal." His chief function in life, aside from mute worship of me even to the extent of refusing all food for days after I leave on a trip, is the killing of every cat that encroaches upon the domain about my home during the spring when dozens of songbirds are nesting and rearing their happy families.

Owned Many Dogs

But I have owned "good" dogs in the past. Let's see if I can recall some of them. One, a high-class pointer, "Bab," by name, cost Conductor W. O. Stone of the Northwestern railway, who is now dead, hundreds of dollars in Brooklyn, N. Y., and as much more to have him trained. Stone gave "Bab" to me. He was the only bird dog I ever owned that would point and retrieve jacksnipe without an error. The "jack" gives off little scent, you know. "Bab" died, the victim of a dehumanized poisoner, a filthy creature called a human being.

My next venture was a red Irish setter purchased in Winona, Minn., Stubbard. More so than a pointer, but kindness finally won the battle, and over "Red" I shot many a chicken and ruffed grouse in the days of plenty.

Laverne Robedeau Will be Master of Ceremonies at Follies

Kaukauna—Laverne Robedeau has been named master of ceremonies for "Varieties of 1937," a 15-act vaudeville show which will be sponsored by the Pulp and Papermakers Unions No 20 and 21 Saturday night, Feb. 27, and Sunday afternoon and evening, Feb. 28, in the Civic auditorium.

The Vesper Chamberlain studio of dancing will present an act in which over thirty students from Appleton and Kaukauna will appear. The series of musical and dancing acts are under the direction of Miss Lucile Austin, musical instructor in the public schools.

An instructive drill in phases of machine gun and drill work will be presented by Company "D," Wisconsin national guard, of Appleton. Putting a machine gun into action, dismantling it, and the stripping and assembling of a gun while blindfolded will feature the drill.

Social Items

Kaukauna—St Ann's court No. 236, Women's Catholic Order of Foresters, held their regular meeting Tuesday evening in Holy Cross hall. In the card playing that followed the business session, Mrs. Susan Foegen won in sheephead and Mrs. Dora Runte in bridge. Mrs. Clara Mocco won the door prize.

New officers will be elected at the next meeting Sunday, March 2.

Order Signing of Operator Contracts

Kaukauna—The common council this week instructed Mayor John Niesen and City Clerk Lester Brenzel to sign contracts for operators of the Lave street bridge. The contracts have been received from the state highway department.

The three bridge tenders will begin work when the War Department proclaims the opening of navigation. The highway department recommended that men who served last summer be re-hired. The Lave street bridge tenders last year were Charles Beebe, Elmer Johnson, and William Plotz.

High School C Team Defeats Holy Cross

Kaukauna—The high school "C" squad triumphed over the Holy Cross grade team 23-20 in an afternoon basketball game yesterday. Kalista led the "C" squad scoring, and Giordana sparked the Holy Cross attack, each slipping through four baskets and two free throws.

The Kaukauna office of the Appleton Post-Crescent is located in the Jules Mertes barbershop on Wisconsin avenue. Don Anderson is the correspondent in charge and the telephone number is 107. Subscribers may call this number until 6:30 in the evening if their papers were not delivered.

TEACH VALUE OF CLOTHING IN ST. MARY'S KINDERGARTEN

Every moment that the pupils of St. Mary's Catholic parochial school kindergarten at Kaukauna are in class they are kept busy with educational projects. In the above picture, five of the children are shown cutting their own designs in a course intended to teach them the value of clothing. They selected their own styles from shop windows, learning prices and colors and then reconstructed the models in class. The five boys shown with some of the completed work in the background are: Left to right—Elna Schaeffer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Schaeffer, 210 E. Tenth street; Joseph Kline, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edmond Kline, 411 Main avenue; Donna Luebke, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Luebke, route 3; Marjorie Brewster, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Brewster, 414 W. Ninth street, and Alfred Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Smith, 205 W. Ninth street. (Post-Crescent Photo.)

Kaukauna Postmen Average 18 Miles of Walking Daily

Kaukauna—Stream-lined trains, swift airplanes, and powerful boats are making the delivery of letters faster and easier each year, but there's still a lot of walking to be done before they reach the right addresses.

Each of Kaukauna's four mailmen, for example, tramp an average of 18 miles a day delivering from 60 to 200 pounds of mail up and down the streets. Their total mileage, 72, is as far as from here to Waupun or a round trip to Manitowish. They walk those miles for 15 hours a day in all types of weather, except Sundays, holidays, and during vacations.

The regular carriers are Harry Trepow and August Carnot, south side; Alphonse Stevens and Donald Wenzel, north side. Fifty pounds is about the heaviest load one man ever carries. Each mailman has a relay box on his route to which mail is taken by truck and from which he loads his bag.

The seasonal coming of the catalogs may be eagerly anticipated by some people, but to the mailmen it means harder work. The same is true at Christmas time. During those days each man sometimes distributes as much as 500 pounds of mail to the homes and business places on his route each day.

Because they drive cars, it doesn't follow that the rural mailmen have an easy time of it. It might be said instead that because they drive cars, their job is that much harder. Despite roads uncertain from rain and ice or bulging with snow drifts, despite cold and storms, the rural carriers must push their automobiles ahead and place the day's mail in the boxes perched in front of farms.

They must stop their cars frequently. John Van Dyke, for example, drives 39 miles along Route 1 and delivers to 259 families. That means he stops on an average of over six times a mile.

John Broucek, assigned to Route 3, brings the mail to 304 families while he drives 53 miles, an average of six stops a mile. Theodore Smith, carrier for route 2, halts his car five times in each of his 55 miles while placing letters and papers in 275 boxes.

Icy Streets Worst In City's History

Kaukauna—Ice conditions on the streets this winter were the worst in the history of the city, according to Charles Lowery, south side street commissioner.

"We have found solid ice one foot deep in some places on the streets," he reported this week. "So far we have used 100 yards of cinders for safety purposes on the south side. In any previous winter, 30 yards would be plenty."

Lowery said that his men have been busy the past week cleaning out catch basins and loosening ice along the curbs. If the warm weather continues, most of the ice will be off the streets within a few days, he said.

Petition Asks Council To Order Walk Raising

Kaukauna—A petition signed by about forty men asking the council to instruct the street department to raise the sidewalk in the front of the high school on Oak street between Main avenue and Island street was read at the council meeting this week.

The signers, most of them south side men who use the walk on their way to work at the mills, complained of the accumulation of ice and water. The petition was placed on file.

Urges Public to Support National Defense Program

Captain Brumund
Stresses Preparedness in
Talk to Rotary Club

Kaukauna—An adequate national defense program can be launched only through the support of a public aroused to the dangers projecting from militant Europe, Captain Walter H. Brumund, Appleton attorney and reserve officer in infantry, told members of the Rotary club yesterday.

Speaking on the aims of National Defense Week, Feb. 12 to 22, Brumund said that America's dislike for "anything militaristic" and her "blind faith that everything will come out all right" are factors which have stood in the way of needed defense measures.

He was introduced by Lieutenant-Colonel Olin G. Dryer, principal of the high school, at a noon luncheon at Hotel Kaukauna.

"We who boost national defense are not dupes in the hands of the industrialists who make money on war and we do not clash with peace groups, except those who recommend complete abandonment of military units," he said.

Queer Advantage

"The pacifists have a queer advantage in that their plan has never been tried but with all Europe racing in re-armament programs, it doesn't seem logical that this is a time to lay down our arms."

By use of charts Brumund showed that the United States among the great powers second only to Russia in population, has the smallest percentage of men in regular army or reserve corps.

"Although our geographical position and the fact that Canada is a good neighbor are extenuating factors, America still should perk up and equip herself more fully," he said.

He outlined the provisions of the National Defense Act of 1922 and explained the structure of the three units, regular army, national guard, and reserve officers corps.

State School Leader Will Address Knights

Kaukauna—George P. Hambrecht, state director of vocational education, will address the Kaukauna council No 1033, Knights of Columbus, following the regular meeting at 8 o'clock Monday night, Feb. 22.

His subject will be "Washington and The Constitution." Hambrecht was formerly a member of the legislature and chairman of the industrial commission. Before entering vocational school work, he practiced law in Wisconsin Rapids.

He held the presidency of the American Vocational association for two terms.

Hambrecht spoke here at a Knights of Columbus meeting six years ago.

The Tuscaloosa, Ala., police force reports that no University of Alabama student has been arrested for drinking in the past three years. "Students just haven't been drinking," says Officer F. Robinson.

Expect 60 School Officials and Civic Leaders at Tournery Booster Banquet

Kaukauna—The banquet to boost the Class "B" high school basketball tournament here next month will be held at 6:30 tonight in Hotel Kaukauna, bringing together officials of the eight schools entered, representatives from clubs in the city, and interested townspeople. About sixty are expected to attend.

Paul F. Neverman, secretary of the Wisconsin Interscholastic Athletic association, will speak at the dinner at which Harry McAndrews, city attorney, will be toastmaster.

Mayor John Niesen and Superintendent James F. Cavanaugh will extend welcomes to the superintendents, principals, and coaches from DePere, Clintonville, Waupaca, Shawano, Neenah, Menasha, and West DePere who will be present at tonight's banquet. These seven schools and Kaukauna will fight it out for the Western division Northeastern Wisconsin conference championship at the tournament here March 10-13, inclusive.

Principal Olin G. Dryer, tournament manager, will announce the first drawings for the playoff and discuss other important matters. Charles D. Towsley, president of the athletic council, will speak tonight's dinner, urging the support of the city's citizens and organizations.

State Welfare Institutions are All Overcrowded

Shattuck, Member of Citizens Committee, Tells Of Findings

Neenah—Overcrowded conditions exist in practically every state institution maintained for the sick, the mentally deficient and the wayward, according to S. F. Shattuck, member of the governor's committee on public welfare, who spoke last night at a meeting of the Parent-Teachers association at Washington school.

At the invitation of Governor Philip F. LaFollette, 33 educators, business leaders and citizens gathered last June and undertook a gigantic survey of Wisconsin.

Mr. Shattuck, in speaking of the purpose and work of the governor's committee on public welfare, outlined the make-up of seven sub-committees in the fields of child welfare, health and disability, public assistance, delinquency, finance, personnel and administration.

Great Benefits
Mr. Shattuck said he had been benefited greatly as a citizen, in becoming acquainted with conditions in state institutions and, by sharing some of the findings of his committee, he expressed the hope that his hearers might become more intelligently interested in the social responsibility of their state. He made it clear that it was not his function to reflect the recommendations of the whole committee or any of its sub-committees.

Mr. Shattuck said there was a total of 26,000 people in state and county institutions costing $5,500,000 to $4,000,000 annually to maintain. In the penal and mental institutions, to which people are committed rather than admitted, the overcrowding is most evident. In the mental hospitals there is evidence of understaffing.

The family is the primary social group to which all problems of the individual are related. Mr. Shattuck declared that the overcrowding in the state institutions is not only a social problem, but it is a public health problem, and that the state has a duty to see that the living conditions here are such as to be alleviated to some extent at the public institutions.

10,143 Cases
"A total of 10,143 cases were admitted to the Wisconsin General Hospital during 1936," he said. "Again we find an overcrowding in many departments."

The hospital, however, is equipped for the highest type of surgery and treatment, and a superior service is being rendered by the faculty of the medical school, Mr. Shattuck declared.

At Sparta one finds a superintendent doing a splendid job with the facilities he has to work under. The Sparta school is operating under the stress of overcrowding. The school facilities are modern but the living conditions leave much to be desired.

The main building has been lost by fire at the school for deaf in Delavan and the school is at present operating under a handicap, but a missionary spirit was evidenced by members of the faculty who appeared to be vitally interested in their work.

No Law to Cover
Our committee could find no laws giving the board of health the authority to go into a home and examine the family of a tubercular patient. This is considered important because it is proven that the chances of contracting the disease are increased 13 times when one is in immediate contact with an afflicted person, than in society at large.

Wisconsin has made great strides in lengthening the period of life expectancy. The average life expectancy for males is 61.5 years and the female expectancy is 64.6 years in this state, Mr. Shattuck said. Special mention was made of a "traveling clinic" under the auspices of the State Medical Society, composed of specialists who visit country doctors, discussing new practices and theories in an effort to keep the country doctor abreast of the times.

Both Overloaded
Both state institutions for mental defectives at Chippewa Falls and Union Grove, operate under an overload. The committee was impressed with the burdened staff, and needed medical facilities. Hospital buildings in connection with the Union Grove establishment are authorized.

The next major advance in public health, Mr. Shattuck prophesied, would be in the field of mental hygiene. He traced the public attitude toward mental sickness from Bible times down to the present, and made a plea for a more reasonable view of nervous and mental disorders. The crude concept of mental disease is still seen in Wisconsin in the use of jails to confine mentally deranged persons prior to commitment to a hospital and through a delivery of the patient to the hospital by an armed officer of the law.

Mr. Shattuck said the annual intake at Mendota and Winnebago state hospitals is approximately 2,700 annually, and the average treatment period is 10 months. In previous years, a 20-month stay was possible. About 40 per cent can be cured in one year and 10 per cent more in two years. He said he felt there should be more attention given in county asylums to the possibility of curative processes.

LEAVES FOR MEET
Neenah—F. B. Younger, superintendent of Menasha schools, left this morning for New Orleans where he will attend the department of superintendent convention of the National Education association. The convention will be held from Feb. 20 to 23.

GROUP TO MEET
Neenah—Menasha Educational association will hold a regular meeting Tuesday evening, Mar. 2, according to A. J. Armstrong, high school principal. Plans are being made and a speaker will be secured. The place of the meeting has not been decided.

Propose Law to Enable Counties to Aid Firms

(Post-Crescent Madison Bureau)
Madison, Wis., Feb. 18.—New industries in Menasha, Neenah and Oshkosh may receive financial aid from the Winnebago county treasury if a bill of Assemblyman Leo Niemuth, (R.), of the first Winnebago county district is enacted into law.

Niemuth Wednesday introduced a bill which would allow Winnebago county to appropriate money to "aid and encourage the location of manufacturing, industrial and commercial plants therein, and for other purposes designed to increase the population, taxable property, and business prosperity of the county, and for the necessary incidental expenses in relation thereto."

Niemuth's bill was referred to the committee on state and local government.

Three Conference Games Remain for Menasha Bluejays

Neenah Rockets Next foe Of Caldermen, Idle Until Feb. 26

Menasha—With a decisive 35 to 23 victory over Kaukauna High school in the bag and only three conference games left this season, Menasha Bluejays are in for a long rest before tangling with Neenah High school here Feb. 26.

Coach M. A. Calder will have plenty of time to room his charges in preparation for the big basketball event of the season and, although he has lost Guy Wideman, star guard, since defeating the Rockets, will still have plenty on the ball when the two clubs meet.

Another big stumbling block in the path of the Caldermen is the Shawano Indian game which has been changed from Mar. 2 to Mar. 3. The Indians must meet Neenah before coming to Menasha and in the event the Rockets win and De Pere loses again, Menasha will have a fair chance to finish near the top. The team is now tied for third place with Neenah, each having won five games and lost four.

Clintonville will invade Butte des Morts gymnasium on Mar. 5 to officially close the 1937 basketball season for the Menashans. Although the Truckers have not won a game this season, the team is improving and may cause the local club no little trouble. The district tournament will start on Mar. 10.

Menasha Society

Menasha—Mrs. William Frederick, Manitowish road, entertained Wednesday afternoon and evening at a miscellaneous shower in honor of his sister, Miss Helen Margaret Barnes who is to be married Feb. 27. Honors in the afternoon card games went to Mrs. Frank Ciske and Mrs. C. Klienert. Clintonville, Mrs. A. Wiltz and Mrs. R. C. Thorne. In the evening Mrs. David Prosser and Mrs. Hugh Sutton won honors. Miss Barnes received many gifts.

Betty Rebekah lodge will hold a regular meeting at the I. O. O. F. hall at 8 o'clock Friday evening. A Valentine party will follow the business session. Katherine Terrio is chairman of the party and Mrs. Jennie Bain is chairman of the hostess committee.

Catholic Daughters of America, Court Alouez, Neenah-Menasha, will hold initiation of new members at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon with a 6:30 dinner following at Hotel Menasha. Mrs. Emily Hawley is chairman of the dinner.

Twenty members of the Guild of St. Anne attended the first of a series of luncheon teas Wednesday afternoon at the parish house of the St. Thomas Episcopal church. Bishop Sturtevant, Fond du Lac, was guest speaker. Mrs. H. S. Hawley was chairman of the hostess committee and was assisted by Mrs. K. S. Shepard and Mrs. Albert Chambers. The next tea will be held March 3 when Canon DuBois is guest speaker.

Miss Myrtle Terrio who is to be married in the near future to Edwin Weyenberg was honor guest at a shower Tuesday evening when her sister, Mrs. Wallace Schoepel, 736 Paris street, entertained for her. Speaker Lists Threats to Peace in Address Before Twin City Business Women Menasha—Declaring that ignorance and illiteracy, lust for and abuse of power, rampant nationalism and unconstructive patriotism were threats to world peace, A. J. Armstrong, Menasha High school principal, told members of the Business and Professional Women's club last night at Hotel Menasha that he did not believe we could have world peace unless we had domestic peace which is impossible in nations like Nazi Germany, fascist Italy and communistic Russia where the people don't feel at ease, where rights have been deprived them.

"In case of war, is the United States in possession of adequate national defenses?" Mr. Armstrong asked, and answering his own question he said, "I don't know. However, I present these facts and figures and allow you to judge. United States ranks lowest among great nations of the world in a comparison of standing army strength according to the size of the army in comparison with the population. We have an army of 500,000 men, 35 per cent of the total population.

Compare Figures
"Compare that figure with Belgium whose army of 584,000 is over 7 per cent of its population, with Great Britain whose army of over 2,000,000 is 4 per cent of its population, with China whose army is 1,750,000 is 9.7 per cent of its population, with France with its army of 6,200,000 which is 14.6 per cent of its population, with Italy with its army of 6,600,000 which is 14.6 per cent of its population or with Russia with its army of 16,000,000 which is 9.2 per cent of its population.

"In naval strength we are second only to England in naval strength. Have we an adequate army and navy? The question mark in our national defense lies in whether we consider ourselves isolated. Have we ever had to fight a defensive war? There is a possibility that we might have to at some time. There are three possible routes of attack which might put us on the defensive. This is all hypothetical but it might happen.

"We may be attacked from north-eastern Canada with a base there. The distance is only 1,300 miles. An army could sweep down into the industrial region of the United States, attack Duluth, Buffalo, March down Albany, penetrate the Mohawk valley and get control of eastern railroads.

Simultaneous Attack
"If the enemy were a coalition of European powers they might launch a simultaneous attack against the Chesapeake Bay region. They could not succeed by themselves but it is possible that 4,000 planes, carrying on the average, 6 men per plane, could drop 24,000 men at ease after carrying them over mountains and waters.

"The most dangerous possible international combination would be a coalition of England and Japan with a base at Alaska. It is less than 100 miles or one half hour flying across Bering straight. We are weak at this point but not particularly vulnerable. Although they might damage the west coast, it would be more dangerous if England attacked on the Atlantic and Japan on the Pacific.

"Could we defend ourselves in event of such attacks? I think we could due to our resources, and to the fact that England would undoubtedly never raise arms against the United States. At our hand we have the mystery ray which is used to detect ships as far as 50 miles off the coast and planes almost that far.

telling the exact position; we have the telephoto which creates a magnetic field along a straight line and when the field is penetrated, and alarm goes off and it is possible to tell within 200 feet where the disturbance is. We have the resources which all nations are dependent upon in time of war: chemicals, food, coal, iron, iron ore, petroleum, power, machinery, manufacturing skill. United States leads in every one of these essentials and more over is the only nation in the world that includes all of them within her borders.

Proper Legislation
In discussing whether the United States, desiring to maintain neutrality, has legislation now that is adequate to insure it. Mr. Armstrong briefly reviewed the legislation in regard to world peace, especially that in which the United States participated.

He spoke of the Hague conference in 1907 which "was rather a weak attempt to see if the probability of war could be lessened." Of the Bryan treaties of 1913 or thereabouts which proposed "postponement of war activities for a year when a disagreement arose." Germany and Austria Hungary were the only important countries who did not agree to the proposal," of the league of nations which failed probably "because of the failure of the president to include members of the opposite party in the delegation. Strong objection was raised to article 10 which held that in case of war, all league members were to make war on the aggressor.

Mr. Armstrong discussed the World Court briefly and the disarmament conferences of 1921, 1927, 1930, 1935, 1932 and the Briand-Kellogg pact as well as the sanctions employed during the recent Ethiopian-Italian war.

Are They Effective
"Are they effective?" he asked. "Have they done any good?" No doubt they are a step in the right direction but of no definite good. You cannot put your finger on a definite value that came from any of them.

"What can we do about it as individuals?" We can be tolerant of all races and creeds. We can be well informed on current questions and skeptical of all forms of obvious propaganda. We can vote on public issues and demand an accounting from public officials. We can insist on full freedom of speech. Democratic ideals commit us to tolerance and to an interest in the welfare of the masses of mankind throughout the world."

Miss Charlene Bloomstrom played two selections, "Hold Thou My Hand" and "Gypsy Love Song" on a one string violin during the musical program. Mrs. W. A. Jacobs was the accompanist. Red, white and blue flags and candles decorated the table and flags of all nations in the world were on display as the club observed February as international relations month.

Dismiss One Case, Second Is Filed

Pinball Machine Charge Dropped on Technical Point

(Post-Crescent Oshkosh Bureau)
Oshkosh—A technical point of law caused dismissal Wednesday of charges of harboring pinball machines against J. Tennesen, operator of the Barn Tavern, in the town of Menasha, by Municipal Judge Henry Hughes.

District Attorney Lewis C. Magnusen, however, immediately arraigned Tennesen on a second charge, under another section of the Wisconsin statutes, with preliminary examination set for Saturday at 10 a. m.

After the jury had been selected, Defense Attorneys Mark Catlin, Appleton, and Franklin McDonald of Bouck, Hilton, Kluwin & Dempsey, Oshkosh, moved for dismissal on the grounds of insufficient evidence the machines had been operated.

The jury was removed from the courtroom while defense attorneys and Dist. Attorney Magnusen argued the point. It was ruled by Judge Hughes that the charges had been brought under a section of the statutes where operation of the machines formed one of the essential elements of the offense. Accordingly, he dismissed the case.

Dist. Atty. Magnusen then brought an amended charge against Tennesen, charging possession of pin-ball machines, under another section of the state law which prohibits their possession.

Proposed Court Amendment Will Face Opposition

Plan Means More Fundamental Change Than Already Suggested

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington—Proposals that congress be given the right by two-thirds vote to override the decisions of the Supreme Court of the United States are being advanced as a compromise in the controversy over enlarging the size of the court.

But such proposals, while, on the surface, a basis of compromise, would probably be fought more vehemently when analyzed as constituting a fundamental change in our system of government than the attempt to change the judges by altering the size of the court.

The best exposition of the argument against the idea of giving the legislative branch increased powers was made by Justice Harlan Stone in a speech delivered while he was a member of the supreme court bench. The occasion was the meeting of the American Bar association in Seattle in July, 1923. Justice Stone pointed out that he was not discussing whether the power to override decisions should or should not be given, but he was outlining "in a gathering of lawyers" the effect of the suggested limitations on the judicial power. He said, in part:

"It has been suggested that a statute might be made to prevail over constitutional objections if it were passed by the legislative body twice. It has also been suggested that if a statute whose constitutionality was contested were upheld by a minority of two or three of the members of the court, it should become law despite all constitutional objections.

Questions Arise

"When any such device is applied to the function which the court exercises as the arbiter between the rival claims of governments or the separate branches of the national government, the question at once arises: shall it be applied equally to statutes passed by congress and to statutes passed by state legislatures, or shall it be applied to only one of the acts of congress; if applicable only to one, it is apparent that the sovereign state and the national government no longer stand on a plane of equality in matters of constitutional right or immunity, but the way is opened for the gradual curtailment of the constitutional powers granted to or reserved by one through the enactment of statutes by the other which, whenever their constitutionality is assailed, have greater weight before the court than the constitution itself.

"But if the device of the weighted statute were to be applied both to the acts of congress and to state statutes in the field of conflict of powers of government under our dual system, then each would be given the opportunity to extend its constitutional power in particular fields at the expense of the other by the enactment of statutes which, before the supreme court, must be given either greater than is given to other forms of governmental action or to the provisions of the constitution itself.

"In a controversy between states, founded upon diverse claims of constitutional right, greater weight must needs be given to the statute of one than to the executive action of the other, merely because governmental action in one case has found expression in a statute rather than through some other equally competent agency.

"The same inequality between the different types of responsible government action would occur with respect to the three branches of the national government. Under such a scheme, the executive action of the president of the United States or the judicial action of courts, each founded upon a claim of constitutional rights, would have less weight than the action of the legislative branch. In practice, the device of the weighted statutes could only operate to effect a gradual transfer of constitutional powers from the executive and judicial branches of the government to the legislative.

Shift of Powers
These are but illustrations in somewhat elementary fashion of the truth that, under our system of the distribution of constitutional powers, the power vested in one branch or agency of the government cannot be subordinated to that of the other, and that giving artificial weight to one form of governmental action wherever it comes into conflict with the other forms, or with the constitution itself, can only result in an inevitable shifting of governmental powers as they have been distributed by the constitution. And that redistribution of power would take place, not as a result of judicial action based on the provisions of the great document itself, but by increasing the power of one at the expense of the other by resort to its own legislative action."

Already, of course, what Justice Stone foresaw nine years ago has come to pass in the demand for greater and greater legislative power, or greater executive power, both at the expense of the judicial power. The plan to override decisions of the supreme court by act of congress, voted upon by two-thirds, will lead to a proposal for majority vote. Indeed, it is being sponsored already as a compromise in the event that the administration objects to a two-thirds vote as a means of overriding the supreme court.

Such plans mean only that their sponsors want to make the legislative power supreme and that 531 politically elected persons would be asked not only to make the laws but sit as judges on their own acts in interpreting the constitution. A simple act to take away power from the states would under the proposal, supersede any right a state might possess. The possibilities that a political oligarchy, possessing all the funds and the powers of issuance of money, would supersede any other agency of authority are considered by opponents of the plan to be by no means fantastic.

The only real compromise on the president's plan to enlarge the court is to shelve it whilst the new retirement bill is passed and a couple judges retire. This would give the country an opportunity to appraise the type of justice Mr. Roosevelt has in mind for the supreme court and the basic issues would be clarified.

1,000 Fans See Rowdy Pocan Win

Capacity Crowd Attends Wrestling Matches At Armory

Menasha—A capacity crowd of over 1,000 wrestling fans saw Rowdy Pocan, 165-pound Kimberley grunter, go the full hour time limit and defeat Young Hackenschmidt of Tipton last night at the mat show at S. A. Cook armory.

The Kimberley lad took the first fall in 28 minutes with the application of a piledriver and won the battle after the time limit was up. Pocan was outwheeled and had a difficult time to keep out of the grip of the heavier Hackenschmidt. Duke Ruppenthal won the semi-windup match from O. Wilcox of Lansing, Mich., by taking two quick falls. The first was won with a backbreak in 28 minutes and the second in 3 minutes with a kick in the bread basket. Ruppenthal took Wilcox by surprise shortly after the bell and rushed at the loser feet first. The stunning effort of the maneuver gave the Duke enough time to pin Wilcox.

In the preliminary, Louis Kodrick, Peshtigo, and Don Cortez of Soan battled to a 30-minute draw. The fight was hard fought all the way. Kodrick putting on a real show for fans Earl Otto, Appleton was the referee.

ESCAPE IF YOU CAN

BY FREDERICK JACKSON

SYNOPSIS: Bigelow, young American-born Parisian, comes to New York at his aunt's request to check on a Count Vrnski whom her step-daughter Anne may marry. Anne proves a charming, independent girl. They arrange a dinner party, including Vronski and Karsanokoff, the stunning Russian dancer whom Bigelow met again. They all glanced at Anne.

"You can see what a convenient husband Count Vronski would make," said Anne, with a smile. But Bigelow noted that she did not deny his insinuation that they were

BIGelow wondered what game Karsanakkoff was playing. He had interpreted that guarded look in her eyes when she had first glimpsed Vronski as an indication that she had been told that the top floor belonged to Anne and it was a roomier place than one might have imagined from outside. There was first, the studio—working studio—with a huge skylight and all of painter's equipment

Find 360 Pounds Of Fish Per Acre Of Surface Water

Acre of Pasture Land Produces About 200 Lbs. Of Beef Per Year

Madison — A thorough seining of Lake Fingra, Madison, revealed the presence of about 360 pounds of fish per acre of water surface. Prof. Chancy J. J. of the university announces in a report of studies he made with WPA aid.

An acre of pasture land is estimated to produce about 200 pounds of beef a year.

The Lake Fingra study was made possible by an intense effort by a conservation department crew to rid the Dane county lake of rough fish. A seine that stretched from shore to shore was operated over the entire lake length.

Prof. J. J. declared that the fish content of the lake was shown to be high in one of the most thorough studies of its kind ever made. But, he points out, by weight, 65 per cent of the total catch consisted of rough fish.

357 Pounds per Acre
The seine revealed 72,752 fish weighing 71,550 pounds, or 357 pounds per acre. Prof. J. J. declared that the entire fish crop on the basis of seining revelations was a little more than 360 pounds per acre.

Rough fish found in the seine were removed from the lake and game fish were returned to the water.

The seine showed the following fish record:

A total of 6,000 carp weighing 41,850 pounds, or 209 pounds per acre; 652 buffalo fish weighing 1,300 pounds, or 6.5 pounds per acre, 2,500 garfish weighing 3,500 pounds, or 17.5 pounds per acre; 1,100 black bass weighing 1,600 pounds, or 8 pounds per acre; 1,000 walleye weighing 1,500 pounds, or 7.5 pounds per acre; 20,000 sunfish weighing 6,000 pounds, or 33 pounds per acre; 40,000 crappies weighing 2,300 pounds, or 66 pounds per acre; 1,500 white bass weighing 1,000 pounds, or 9.5 pounds per acre.

On a weight basis the pan fish made up 30 per cent of the fish crop and the game fish a little less than 5 per cent. The rest were rough fish. Numerically, however, pan and game fishes far outnumbered rough fish.

The Presidents vs. The Supreme Court

Court Attack Cost Teddy Roosevelt Another Term

(Editor's Note: This is the last of a series of four articles dealing with the historic fight between presidents and the supreme court.)

BY MORGAN M. BEATTY

Washington—(AP)—Ulysses S. Grant was the last president who differed with the Supreme Court on a major issue and carried the day. A soldier though he was, Grant used arts of peace to beat down opposition in the high tribunal to the famous post-war legal tender acts.

The trick appeared to be simple enough. A couple of friendly nominees for vacancies and an agreeable congress paved the way.

In February, 1870, before the vacancies were filled, the Supreme Court decided, in effect, that greenbacks were not legal tender.

On the very day of the decision, President Grant nominated Joseph P. Bradley of New Jersey and William Strong of Pennsylvania, railroad attorneys, and both nominations immediately were confirmed by the senate.

Grant Wins His Point

The question of the constitutionality of the greenbacks again was raised, and within 15 months greenbacks were held constitutional by the added votes of the new appointees in their favor.

On the same day that he declared in Cleveland that his hat was in the ring for the Republican Presidential nomination of 1912 against President Taft, Colonel Roosevelt advocated before an Ohio constitutional convention the recall of judicial opinions.

"I very earnestly ask you clearly to provide in this constitution," he said, "means which will permit the people themselves by popular vote . . . finally and without appeal to settle what the proper construction of any constitutional point is."

"Each (judge) must follow his conscience, even though to do so cost him his place. But in their turn the people must follow their conscience, and when they have definitely decided on a given policy they must have public servants who carry out that policy."

Colonel Beats Himself
It was on the heels of that speech that Theodore Roosevelt launched his candidacy to defeat President Taft for re-nomination.

It was because of that speech that he lost the previously certain support of such Republican stalwarts as the late Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, dominating figure in Massachusetts Republican politics.

The Massachusetts delegation was equally divided at the convention between Taft and Roosevelt. Had it gone to Roosevelt as a "Grant packed the court," opponents yelled, and the phrase "packing the court" still crops up.

Six decades passed after Grant beat back the Supreme Court before President Roosevelt slapped a "horse and buggy" label on a judicial opinion.

But before that mild epithet was flung from the White House, an angry and wanted the job again, proposed to clip the Supreme Court's wings. He wanted to give to the voters the power to the judiciary has insisted on from the days of Washington and Jefferson. That was the right of judicial review—the last word.

Roosevelt Strikes Judiciary
As President, Theodore Roosevelt was a frequent and caustic critic of judicial interpretations of the constitution, both federal and state. But the heaviest impact of his striking personality and great popular following fell against the judiciary after he left the White House.

On the same day that he declared in Cleveland that his hat was in the ring for the Republican Presidential nomination of 1912 against President Taft, Colonel Roosevelt advocated before an Ohio constitutional convention the recall of judicial opinions.

"I very earnestly ask you clearly to provide in this constitution," he said, "means which will permit the people themselves by popular vote . . . finally and without appeal to settle what the proper construction of any constitutional point is."

"Each (judge) must follow his conscience, even though to do so cost him his place. But in their turn the people must follow their conscience, and when they have definitely decided on a given policy they must have public servants who carry out that policy."

LOST HIS JOB
Historians say President Theodore Roosevelt might have had another term but for a single speech striking at judicial supremacy.

unit, as Lodge had intended until he read the Ohio speech, Colonel Roosevelt's nomination would have been assured.

In the judgment of party leaders at the time, Colonel Roosevelt was certain of election if nominated on the Republican ticket. His bolt to the Progressive party insured Taft's defeat and Woodrow Wilson's election. But for his Ohio declaration for recall of judicial opinions, the subsequent course of American political history might have been changed.

The New Deal fight for a "liberal" interpretation of the constitution being waged by a Democratic President Roosevelt might have been fought under the "square deal" banner raised by his distant kinsman, the Republican President Roosevelt.

Check Diseases In Early Stages, Mothers Urged

County Nurse Addresses Women's Group at Kimberly School

Kimberly — Addressing mothers Tuesday evening in the home economics room at the public school, Miss Marie Klein, county nurse, declared that many children's diseases could be prevented if more care were taken in the earlier stages.

Colds, very often thought to be of little importance, in many cases develop into pneumonia which may even prove fatal, she said. Literature was given out to the mothers on children of pre-school age.

She also explained that it is not always necessary for a child to have what is termed "children's diseases," such as whooping cough, chicken pox and measles. Many parents will say "let the children have these diseases when they get older." Miss Klein pointed out that any of these illnesses sap the vitality and resistance a child needs to build strong muscles and a healthy body, whereas a grown person can more easily stand to have his resistance lowered somewhat without the same effects as to the pre-school age child.

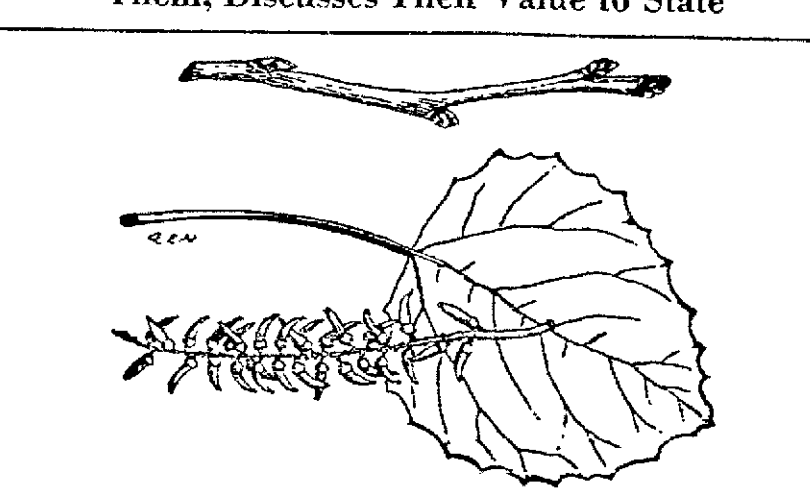

Miss Klein also discussed habit formation, which must start from the day of the child's birth. One early form good or bad habits in eating, sleeping, playing and resting and the foundation of a child depends much on the first five years of his life. She maintained that children must feel they have a place in the home and that a child's rights will be recognized.

She urged mothers to take care in handling the mental control of their children. Questions of children must be answered to the best of one's ability. Parents should not feel that just any answer will do.

Miss Klein pictured a healthy child as:
Eyes, clear and bright; teeth, strong and white; breathe through nose with mouth closed; skin, clear

Conservation Commission Tells How to Identify Them, Discusses Their Value to State

LARGETOOTH ASPEN
The largetooth aspen is found over the entire state, but is less common than the preceding species in the northern part. It is similar to the common aspen but differs in the following respects—the buds are larger, not so sharply pointed, the twigs and leaves in early spring are covered with a whitish wool which soon disappears, the leaves are usually again as large, and largetoothed.

The uses of the wood are the same. The trees also reclaim old burns, and is valuable as a nurse tree for the more valuable pines which establish themselves in its shade and eventually replace it, for the aspens are short lived.

Because of its great maximum size its rapidity of growth and the long clean trunk developed under forest conditions, this tree may be favored for pulp and paper, excelsior and general utility purposes.

Hollywood News And Gossip

By Robin Coon

Hollywood — "Gardenia-white skin with the delicate flush of girl's wholesomeness, crowned by a mass of flaxen hair."

This, translated from studio biography of Jean Rogers, means that she is a pretty blonde, not unlike many another pretty blonde. But what puts her in a class by herself is that, while not very famous in Hollywood, she is a favorite in the world of boys and girls, and gets more fan mail than many a name you know better.

Her virtual anonymity, locally, is explained by the fact that nobody—well, almost nobody—deliberately goes to see a serial movie. And Jean's career, until now, has been confined to serial-queening, unless you count a couple of feature leads on the side.

Jean at 20 is the survivor of a crowded, thrilling cinematic existence. While the engines of her career pined for the peaks, Jean was sipping from crag to crag, as serial queens must.

For really hazardous stunts, a serial actress is "doubled." Even Jean nurses black and blue marks from her last serial while the "ingenues" currently in a feature. She is not sure it was her last serial—they always seem to be one more for her.

There is no "double" for a 3 a. m. all to location, nor for the rigors of a busy shooting schedule which sometimes requires working straight through the day to 10 p. m. at means, for six weeks at a stretch, Jean doesn't play at all. What, I wonder aloud, does an action actress do with her hands when she works in a feature and merely has to talk? That, says Jean, is easy. In the first place, a feature director has time to tell her what to do, whereas the harassed serial-maker is too busy rushing into his chapter-after-next. In the second, it's rather nice to rest your hands.

Jean used to be Eleanor Lovegren from Belmont, Mass., and a movie fan. She still is a fan, even after playing opposite some of the heroes she used to play with fan mail.

She got into pictures by being (accidentally, of course), on a ferryboat the day a talent scout was to select candidates for the film "Eight Girls in a Boat." After she won, she and her mother stored the furniture and came out—intending, of course to go right back. It was mother, says Jean, who thought they might as well gamble on staying. After a partless year under contract, Jean went to Universal and signed there. She still says she wouldn't stay in Hollywood if it meant struggling for a job.

Jean is shy, although she works hard at not being—but she is the only one of the "boat girls" now being featured. The others went home, or are doing bits. She thanks serials.

Wells and Cristy Named to Valley Scout Committee

List of Committeemen for New London Given Approval

New London—G. A. Wells and H. B. Cristy were elected to represent New London on the Valley Council Boy Scout committee at a meeting of the New London district committee at the chamber of commerce offices last night. The list of 50 committee members was approved as submitted by the nominating committee except that George Ross was transferred to the district committee in place of R. D. Mevenden who was placed on the activities committee. The group met with Walter Dixon, Appleton, Valley Council scout executive.

New London has been allowed 35 tickets for the annual Boy Scout meeting at the S. A. Cook armory at Neenah Thursday, Feb. 25 and it was planned to have as many of the new committee attend as possible. Half the tickets were sold last night and members present at the meeting planned to contact others for the sale of the tickets before Saturday. The capacity of the affair is limited.

Scoutmaster Resigns

Gregory Charlesworth has given notice of his resignation as scoutmaster because of insufficient time to devote to the work. A petition signed by scouts of American Legion Troop 7 was presented at the meeting last night requesting that Robert Kirsztewski assistant scoutmaster for several years, be named scoutmaster of the group. Appointment of a scoutmaster is in the hands of the American Legion Boy Scout committee composed of Dr. M. A. Borchardt, George Ross and O. K. Ziebur.

Scout activities for the future were discussed and a series of meetings with Walter Dixon were planned until the movement in New London is well established.

Truck Owner Granted Rehearing on Request

New London—Floyd Granger contract motor carrier of this city, was granted another rehearing at Green Bay yesterday in his application for an amendment to his present license to broaden his range of service. The representatives of the Wisconsin Public Service commission who took the testimony promised a quick decision in the matter.

Granger attended the hearing alone as his own counsel since the necessity of such a hauler in the city and the full support of local patrons has been established in several previous hearings in New London and Green Bay.

The local hauler has been denied the amendment because of certain alleged violations of his present license. He contends if there were such violations they were in emergencies and not deliberate.

Radio System in New Police Cars

County Highway Officers' And Sheriff's Cars Are Equipped

Waupaca—Installation of police radio receiving equipment was completed Wednesday in the new highway police cars. Besides the radios for the two highway police, Roy Myhill and Earl Polzin, Sheriff Duncan Campbell's car was also equipped with radio, and a receiving set put in the office of the sheriff as well.

Waupaca county is now operating under the joint radio system of the four counties, Winnebago, Outagamie, Fond du Lac and Waupaca, although the enlargement of the 100 watt transmitter at Oshkosh to a 400 watt has not been completed, and probably will not be ready until March 1. Clintonville is having a direct wire installed, and other cities in the county are expected to do the same. This will enable them to call Oshkosh, which will then notify the Waupaca sheriff's department. There will be a meeting Thursday in the courthouse of the county traffic and highway committee to regulate hours of the officers and arrange publicity which will inform the public how they may get in touch with the officers via radio.

The first junior high declamatory contest was held Tuesday evening in the high school auditorium, with 16 participants. The judges found it

U. S. Senator Gerald P. Nye says:

"I enjoy the comfort a light smoke gives my throat"

"I have smoked Luckies off and on ever since my first term in the Senate 11 years ago, and I have always enjoyed their taste and the feeling of comfort and safety a light smoke gives my throat. I have done a great deal of public speaking, on the floor of the Senate, over the radio and at conferences. Necessarily this results in a strain on the voice. So naturally, in smoking, I have to think of my throat—and I have found that a light smoke is suitable to my throat."

THE FINEST TOBACCOS—
"THE CREAM OF THE CROP"

IN a recent independent survey, an overwhelming majority of lawyers, doctors, lecturers, scientists, etc., who said they smoked cigarettes, expressed their personal preference for a light smoke.

Senator Nye's statement verifies the wisdom of this preference and so do leading artists of radio, stage, screen and opera, whose voices are their fortunes, and who choose Luckies, a light smoke. You, too, can have the throat protection of Luckies—a light smoke, free of certain harsh irritants removed by the exclusive process "It's Toasted". Luckies are gentle on your throat.
